PRESIDENT SENDS VETO MESSAGE TO THE HOUSE

Refused to Approve Army Appropriation Bill Because of Exemptions From Discipline for Retired Officers Forced Into it by House Conferees Led by Rep. Hay—New Bill May Delay Adjournment

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—President Wilson today vetoed the army appropriation bill because of exemptions from discipline for retired officers forced into it by the house conferees led by Representative Hay over the opposition of the war department. A new bill will be necessary and may delay adjournment of congress. Representative Hay of the house military committee said he would re-introduce the bill again.

There have been broad intimations that the revision which proposed to remove retired officers from the jurisdiction of court martial was in the interest of a certain retired officer who was waiting for a time when he would be immune from discipline to make a public attack on the army. The officer, whose name was mentioned in connection with the report was, while in service, very active in legislative affairs. He was very close to congressmen, framing army bills and unscrupulous in his use of power as a power in legislation affecting the army.

The president's veto of the bill is one of the developments of years of contest between the army and Chairman Hay.

The downfall of the continental army scheme and substitution of the National Guard reorganization against the recommendation of army officers is attributed to him. Only the force of President Wilson's interference put the regular army increase in the new reorganization bill through the house in the face of Hay's opposition. Recently President Wilson appointed Hay to a judgeship on the court of claims and he now is serving his last term in congress.

Pres. Wilson's Message

The war department contends that many features of the army bill were written into it in the conference and never were debated in house and senate.

President Wilson's veto message follows:

"To the house of representatives: I have carefully considered the bill entitled 'An act making appropriations for the support of the army for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1917, and now take the liberty of returning it with my objections to its approval.

"The bill constitutes an essential part of the legislation providing for the military establishment of the country and wisely and generously provides for the reorganization of the agencies of our national defense, and it is with genuine reluctance that I delay its becoming law by suggesting the elimination of one of the provisions which has been embodied in the bill as a necessary and important revision of the articles of war which has been added to it.

"The existing articles of war are undoubtedly archaic. They have not undergone comprehensive revision for more than one hundred years. They do not always furnish the means of meeting promptly and directly the needs of discipline under modern conditions and many contingencies frequently arise in the government of the military forces which were not contemplated when the present code was formulated. The relations of the government of the United States has greatly broadened with the hundred years. We now have insular possessions and national frontiers far away from our continental shores. Both the practice of arms and the theory of discipline have undergone many modern changes and a manifest need for such a revision of these articles as is here presented has long existed. I, therefore, the more keenly regret to find in the proposed revision of the articles of war a provision to which I cannot give my approval.

"The original act establishing the retired list of the army referred to the personnel therein included as only partially retired and provided that a retired officer should be entitled to wear the uniform of his grade, should be borne on the army register, and should be subject to the rules and articles of war and to trial by general court martial for any breach of these articles.

"By the act of July 21, 1876, officers of the army on the retired list were specifically declared to constitute a part of the regular army, a provision which is found repeated in subsequent acts affecting the organization of the army; and other statutes enacted during this period made retired officers of the army available for certain classes of active duty. In time of peace with their consent and in time of war without their consent.

"By the recently enacted national defense act, the authority of the president over retired officers has been further extended so as to make them subject to his call in time of war for any kind of duty without any restriction whatever. Courts and attorneys general have in a long line of decisions held that officers of the army on the retired list hold public office.

"It thus appears that both the legislative and judicial branches have drawn a sharp distinction in status between retired officers, who are regarded and governed at all times as an effective reserve of skilled and experienced officers and a potential source of military strength and mere pensioners, from whom no further military service is expected. Officers on the retired list of the army are officers of the army, members of the military establishment, distinguished by their long service, and as such, examples of discipline to the officers and men in the active army. Moreover they wear the uniform of the army, their education and service hold them out as persons especially qualified in military matters to represent the spirit of the military establishment, and they are subject to active duty in time of national emergency by the mere order of the commander-in-chief.

"They are, therefore, members of the army, officers of the United States, and should be subject to the same discipline as the active army.

RAILROAD PRESIDENTS MEET WILSON TODAY

Many Opposed to Yielding— Favor Arbitration of Everything in Dispute—Men Vote on Plan

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—While the 640 representatives of the railway and the president met in session this morning to vote on acceptance of President Wilson's plan for averting a nation-wide strike, the railroad presidents and their managers held a final conference before going to the White House. The time for the Wilson conference with the railroad presidents had been set for 11.30 o'clock this morning but the railroad men found it impossible to be prepared with their statement at that hour and the time was changed to 2 o'clock this afternoon.

There were indications that the employees would vote to accept President Wilson's proposal of a basic eight hour day and settlement of side issues by a special commission, but the hope for settlement was endangered by evidences that the railroad presidents, backing up their managers' committee were not inclined to grant an eight hour day unless it be decided by arbitration and in any event might ask President Wilson for a little time in which to think over his proposition.

President Wilson abandoned today's cabinet meeting so he could devote all his time to the crucial railroad situation.

The railroad presidents want arbitration under the Newlands act with two arbitrators for roads, two for the men and two for the public. The disposition of many of them was said today to be to insist upon action of that character and not yield to President Wilson's plan for an eight hour day unless it comes from an arbitration board. Some of the presidents are said to feel that the public will support their offer to arbitrate everything in dispute. Others, however, were of the opinion that if President Wilson chooses to exercise his power and refuses to press the men for arbitration it will be difficult for the railroad presidents to continue opposition to his plan.

After the employees' meeting had been in session for an hour one of the leaders came out and said sentiment for the president's proposal was by no means unanimous but no organized opposition to the plan had appeared. Most of them thought the proposition good in the main but some found objection to it.

"There are about 500 men in there clamoring for a chance to speak," said the leader who came out, "and there is no telling when we will get a vote."

W. L. Chambers of the federal mediators went to the men's hall at the request of the brotherhood officials to explain some of the features of the situation.

He went into executive session with the heads of the four brotherhoods on the subject of overtime.

In the men's meeting, the leading objection to President Wilson's plan was that if it were accepted without extra pay for overtime the men demanded the railroads would contend that the sole purpose of the men was to obtain more money and not to get the eight hour day.

Shortly after noon a vote on the president's proposal was begun in the employees' meeting. It was expected more than an hour would be required to take the vote and count it.

Railroad Presidents Arrive

Among the railroad executives who arrived early today from Chicago were R. H. Ashton, Chicago, and Northwestern; C. H. Markham, Illinois Central; H. R. Kurrie, Monon; W. J. Jackson, Chicago & Eastern Illinois; M. J. Carpenter, Chicago, Terre Haute & Southeastern; M. W. Potter, Carolina, Clinchfield & Ohio.

Several other executives are expected to arrive from St. Louis this afternoon.

NO MILL VACATION HERE

Local Mills Not Likely to Close for Ten Days' Vacation as in Lawrence

The mills of Lawrence are to shut down for a ten days' vacation to run from August 26 until after Labor day. These mills have all agreed to close for this period in order to give their help the benefit of a brief vacation.

When asked whether the mills of Lowell will close for a like period Agent Mitchell of the Massachusetts stated that thus far he had heard of no movement of the kind.

Other agents when questioned in regard to the matter made similar statements. One of the latter said that business with the mills is very good at the present time and that while some could close without any great inconvenience it would be a serious matter for some of the others to shut down. "You know," he said, "that we have been running short handed for some time and suffer from lack of an adequate supply of skilled help, many of our operatives having gone to the munition factories.

It is reported that one or two of the smaller mills will shut down in order to make some repairs and it is possible that some of the larger ones may also close.

Treasurer Cunnock of the Appleton Mills stated today that no action had been taken in regard to a vacation in the mills.

3500 BEGGING

Terrible Hardships are Suffered by Armenian Refugees in Arabia

BOSTON, Aug. 18.—A statement describing the hardships suffered by Armenian refugees in northern Arabia was made public today by Rev. Dr. James L. Barton, chairman of the American committee for Armenian and Syrian relief. Dr. Barton said the statement came from an eye witness, not an American, and could be depended upon as unexaggerated.

The eye witness said that of 3500 deported Armenians at Meskene, a part had found employment, but the rest were begging.

"In every tent," he said, "there are sick and dying. Many hundreds of the sick are left without any tent and covering. I saw desperate ones throw themselves in grave trenches and beg the grave diggers to bury them. The government does not give the hungry any food."

He described one party of 600 which had been sent from place to place, without food. As nourishment, he said, they cooked grass, pressed the water out and made balls which they dried in the sun. In Hama he founded the deported Armenians subsisting on locusts and dead dogs. Similar conditions were found in other places.

"In each deportation," the statement continues, "at least five to six perish through the wild mishandling of the accompanying gendarmes."

"In Sepka, a preacher from Aintab told me that parents have often killed their children. At the government investigation it was shown that some people had eaten their children."

HIS LEG FRACTURED

FRED ST. JEAN WAS RUN OVER BY AUTOMOBILE TRUCK IN NORTH BILLERICA

Fred St. Jean, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank St. Jean of High street, North Billerica, is confined to his home suffering from a fractured leg sustained when he was run over by an automobile truck belonging to Kenneth McKinnon, a local grocer, and driven by James Allen.

The accident occurred yesterday directly in front of the St. Jean house in the presence of the boy's mother. It is claimed that Fred was playing with a stick and when the machine approached he attempted to put the stick under the wheel and slipped. He fell in the path of the machine and one of the wheels passed over his leg, causing a fracture. The lad was carried into the house and treated by Dr. Nell K. Forhan.

"COLD STORAGE"
Order Says Every Egg in Cold Storage Must Be Stamped After September First

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 18.—An order issued by the state commissioner of food and markets is worrying commission men here today. It requires that every egg in cold storage must be stamped "Cold Storage" after Sept. 1. Commission houses estimated that there are 72,000,000 eggs in storage in Buffalo and 650,000,000 in the state, and the removal of each egg from its original container for stamping at the cold storage warehouses would require the services of a small army of men, it was said.

COLLIE DOG SAVES GIRL

DROPPED HER FROM RAILS JUST AS AN ELECTRIC CAR WAS RUNNING HER DOWN

BOSTON, Aug. 18.—"Buster," a handsome collie, well known to the residents of his mistress, Miss Lillian Maiter, of Rosemont road, North Weymouth, as a dog of unusual sagacity, was the hero of Quincey Point yesterday. Especially was he a hero in the eyes of Mrs. Lizzie Cockburn, mother of 8-year-old Jennie Cockburn, whom he saved from death yesterday afternoon when he pulled her away from a track just as an electric car was running her down.

Miss Maiter is a friend of the Cockburns and a frequent visitor at their home, 668 Washington street. "Buster" often accompanies her and is well acquainted with little Jennie. Yesterday, when Jennie saw Miss Maiter and "Buster" approaching the Cockburn house, she ran across the road to meet them, stepping directly into the path of a trolley car.

When she saw her danger, Jennie became confused and stood still on the track. As the white-faced motorman started to apply the brakes, "Buster" darted forward and seized the little girl by her dress, pulling her to safety in the nick of time.

WEST MEDFORD GIRL DROWNS

BOSTON, Aug. 18.—Doris F. Lee, 20-year-old daughter of Mrs. Sarah Lee of 133 Jerome street, West Medford, was drowned yesterday afternoon in the swimming pool at Mystic lake, Winchester. Officer James B. Ellis of the Metropolitan park police, who swam to her assistance, fully clothed, succeeded in bringing Miss Lee ashore within a few minutes, but efforts to resuscitate her failed.

Miss Lee jumped into the pond, which is eight feet deep, evidently thinking that the water was shallow.

automobile, operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor and operating an automobile without a license were preferred against him.

When arraigned in court this morning he entered a plea of guilty to the charge of drunkenness and not guilty to the three other complaints. He was not ready for trial and by agreement the hearing was continued until next Tuesday.

The automobile which it is alleged that Conlon stole belongs to Dr. Forster H. Smith, who has an office in the Sun building. The doctor left his machine in front of Barlow's market in Merrimack square last night while he went to his office and upon returning an hour later he found that the automobile was missing. He reported the matter to the officer in the square and then went to the police station and word was telephoned throughout the city and also to the police of adjacent cities.

QUITE BADLY INJURED

CARR AND DELANO GOT THEIR HIPS WHEN CAR STRUCK A POLE

Richard Carr, who resides in Dutton street, and Fred Delano, of 1 Rundlett street, off West Sixth street, are in a rather serious condition at St. John's hospital as a result of an automobile accident in which they figured last night.

Shortly after 9 o'clock last night Carr and Delano were traveling through First street in the direction of Lawrence and when at a point near Llewellyn street crashed into a pole, shattering it and smashing the front of the automobile.

Following the accident the victims succeeded in walking back to as far as the corner of Bridge and First streets from which point they were taken to the hospital. At the hospital it was found that Carr was the more seriously injured, having a fractured upper jaw involving the lower end of his lip, a cut extending two-thirds across his cheek, his teeth smashed out and his tongue split. Delano sustained a cut on the left side of his head behind the ear and extending along his neck, a distance of five inches.

Andrew Y. Rodger of 63 Florence avenue identified the car in which the two were riding as his machine, which he claims had been left in Paige street about 8 o'clock. Sgt. Earl Ryan of the police department visited the hospital to question the victims relative to their use of the machine, but found Carr unable to talk and Delano with little to say.

The front of Rodger's car is a young man made his fifth appearance for drunkenness within a year this morning and but for the plea of his father would have been sent to jail. The defendant admitted that he earned $25 a week but the money goes for drink. He was given a suspended sentence of two months in jail and informed that he would have to pay a fine of $15 which he had promised to pay but neglected.

Two second offenders were fined $5 each and a simple drunk was fined $2. Four were released.

EVERY DAY ETIQUETTE

THE HAIR IN SUMMER

One should remember in going away for the summer outing that there are no available shampooers hiding in the woods that surround the wild mountain camp, and none inhabit the haystacks of the remote country farm.

So it behooves the woman who is spending her summer vacation in a remote place to master the art of shampooing her own hair. And an art it is although it can be mastered easily with a little patience. In the first place, you must have all the required ingredients for a good shampoo at hand. These include a suitable soap or shampoo mixture, plenty of hot and cold water, a spray for rinsing and plenty of suitable towels for drying.

To begin with, if you have dry hair, do not shampoo the hair until you have had time to perform the rite properly. A hasty shampoo is not only untidy, but it is dangerous. Select a clear, sunny day. Have at hand plenty of old, soft towels, and if possible the means of warming them.

Start by washing your brushes and combs. Soft, soapy water, not hot, but tepid, with perhaps a dash of ammonia or borax will be needed for this. Do not allow the brushes to soak long. Rub them together briskly in about two or three waters containing soap.

Now, if your hair is dry, use only shampoo mixture, as follows: Mix one raw egg with a pint of lukewarm water and one ounce of rosemary spirit. When thoroughly beaten and mixed, rub this into the scalp, a good way being to have some one pour it slowly from a small-lipped pitcher while you rub it thoroughly into the scalp, as if you wanted to reach the very roots. Then rinse the hair in lukewarm water. If you have wavy hair, do not rub the hair with towels. As soon as the bulk of the moisture has been absorbed by the towels, sit yourself in the sun, gently shaking the hair, thus drying by ventilation and the sun's rays.

TEUTONS DRIVEN BACK

Russians Again Push Forward—
French Drive East of Meuse—
Other War News

The Russians, temporarily held up in their Galician drive by heavy counter-attacks, have again begun to move forward.

Petrograd today announces that the Teutonic armies on this front have failed in their attempt to throw back Gen. Brusilov's armies, sustaining heavy losses in the effort and that the Russians are again advancing at several points.

In the war news from France, the Verdun region again commands attention. The French have not been notably active there for the past few days, but last night they resumed their offensive east of the Meuse, and, according to this afternoon's Paris bulletin, succeeded in driving the Germans from a part of the village of Fleury, which has long been sharply contested ground. An advance by the French was also scored in the Thiaumont sector, nearby.

After a brief period of delay the Germans have made their expected counter move in the Maurepas sector on the Somme front, where the French on Wednesday night reported substantial gains. Paris declares several attempts at counter attacks were made on the new French positions here but that all failed under the French fire.

The Russians are pushing their campaign in the Carpathian and at one point have crossed the Galician border line into Hungary. Petrograd today announced the approach of Russian troops to the summits of the range near Korosmezo, which is about three miles inside Hungarian territory.

Berlin reports intense activity along the Somme, admitting a British gain of ground on a narrow front near Martinpuich, and an indeterminate result in fighting with the French near Hardecourt. Otherwise the Anglo-French forces were turned back with heavy losses, the official statement declares. It records the repulse of an attack by the French on a wide front west of the Meuse in the Verdun region except at Fleury where the fighting was reported still in progress.

HEAVY ATTACKS MADE BY THE FRENCH ON VERDUN FRONT

PARIS, Aug. 18, noon.—Heavy attacks were made by the French last night on the Verdun front. After violent fighting at Fleury, east of the Meuse they expelled the German from part of the town which had been captured, says the official statement of today.

Several German counter attacks on the Somme front southeast of Maurepas were repulsed.

The French also made considerable progress in the region of Thiaumont, in the Verdun sector. Fifty Germans were captured there.

The statement follows:

"North of the Somme several attempted counter attacks by the enemy against our new positions southeast of Maurepas failed under our fire. We took some prisoners."

"South of the Somme we recovered four machine guns in trenches taken by us south of Bellefleur."

"On the right bank of the Meuse, (Verdun front) an attack by our troops enabled us, after a violent combat, to drive out the Germans from a portion of the village of Fleury which they were occupying."

GERMAN ARTILLERY VERY ACTIVE LAST NIGHT ALONG SOMME

LONDON, Aug. 18.—German artillery became more active last night along the Somme front. A small British gain is reported in the official announcement of today which follows:

"Last night the enemy's artillery generally showed increased activity. Northwest of Bazentin-le-Petit, by a small local enterprise we further extended our gains in the enemy's lines. German trenches in this area were found to be greatly damaged and full of the enemy's dead."

"A further hostile attack from Martinpuich last night was repulsed as completely as were his former attempts yesterday."

BOEHLING AND MILLER OF SENATORS TRADED TO INDIANS FOR SMITH AND LEONARD

examples of discipline, and have in their keeping the good name and the good spirit of the entire military establishment before the world. Occupying such a relation, their subjection to the rules and articles of war and to trial by general court martial have always been regarded as necessary, in order that the retired list might not become a source of tendencies which would weaken the discipline of the active land forces and impair that control over those forces which the constitution vests in the president.

The purchase of the articles of war in times of peace is to bring about a uniformity in the application of military discipline which will make the entire organization coherent and effective and to engender a spirit of cooperation and proper subordination to authority which will in time of war instantly make the entire army a unit in its purpose of self-sacrifice and devotion to duty in the national defense. These purposes cannot be accomplished if the retired officers, still a part of the military establishment, still relied upon to perform important duties, are excluded, upon retirement, from the wholesome and unifying effect of this subjection to a common discipline. I am persuaded that officers upon the retired list would themselves regard as an invidious and unpalatable discrimination which in effect excluded them from full membership in the profession to which they have devoted their lives, and of which, by the laws of their country, they are still members. So long as congress sees fit to make the retired personnel a part of the army of the United States, the constitutionality of the proposed exemption of such personnel from all liability under the articles of war is a matter of serious doubt, leaving the president, as it does, without any means sanctioned by statute of exercising over the personnel thus exempted the power of command vested in him by the constitution.

"Convinced as I am of the wisdom of this provision and of its beneficial effect upon the discipline of the army; doubting, as I do, the power of congress wholly to exempt retired officers from the control of the president, while declaring them to be a part of the regular army of the United States, I am constrained to return this bill without my approval."

Representative Hay announced that he would seek to re-pass the bill in the house under a special rule next Tuesday.

"The articles of war will not be permitted to get through in this bill again," he declared emphatically after a conference with several members of the military committee.

The danger of complication and delay lies in the fact that Chairman Chamberlain of the senate military committee said that if the house passed the bill without revision of the articles of war, the senate probably would reinsert them as they were passed by the senate.

"The veto," said Senator Chamberlain, "reopens the whole bill and there may be some senators who will want to renew their fight for amendments stricken out in conference."

NEW BRITISH LOAN

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Syndicate participations in the new $250,000,000 British loan, were so large, according to the statements of managers, as to cause a closing of the subscription books today. The books for public subscription will not be opened until next week, but it is stated that applications in large numbers already have been received.

TWO WERE INJURED

While on the running board of a Lowell bound car, which left the Lawrence transfer station at 7:50 Wednesday night, Jeremiah Twomey and Joseph Powers, a former employee of the street railway, are reported to have been injured quite badly, when an obstruction used to close the road for repairs struck them a glancing blow. Powers was hurled from the running board and complained of a severe shaking up and injuries to his leg. Twomey suffered painful injuries to his legs also. Both received treatment after the accident.

It is claimed that the obstruction was too close to the car line and as the car sped by Twomey and Powers were struck.

JOHNSTON QUALIFIES

NEWPORT, Aug. 18.—W. M. Johnston of San Francisco qualified for the final round in the Casino tennis tournament today by defeating Harold A. Throckmorton, the interscholastic champion, in four sets.

In the other semi-final match which went five sets, I. Kamagane of Japan defeated C. J. Griffin, San Francisco, and will play Johnston for the Casino cup.

ELKS GAMBOLED ON GREEN

Lowell Elks and Their Friends
Made Merry in Tyngsboro—
Outing Best Ever

"Everybody happy." These few words expressed the sentiments of all those who attended the annual outing of the Lowell lodge of Elks, held on the beautiful and spacious grounds of the Martin Luther in Tyngsboro yesterday. The affair was the biggest and best in the history of the order, and that is saying a great deal when all previous affairs conducted under the auspices of the lodge are taken into consideration. There was not a hitch in the entire program, and each and every event went off like clockwork. The features were varied, and young and old indulged in all the events and thoroughly enjoyed the well diversified program. The weather, handed out by "Brother Bill," was all that could be desired, and all members joined in extending a rising vote of thanks to the dispenser of atmospheric conditions.

As stated in yesterday's Sun the affair opened with a street parade, in which appeared over 50 well filled automobiles and about 200 marchers. The parade was under the direction of Commissioner James E. Donnelly, and like all others managed by the capable marshal, was a success in every particular. After marching through Middle, Shattuck, Merrimack and Central streets, the parade headed for the depot, where after a concert had been played by the Elks' band under the direction of James Buckley, all those who walked hopped aboard a special train and rode to the grounds. Those who were fortunate enough to occupy machines—and the writer, owing to the kindness of John J. Healey, was one of the lucky ones—remained in their seats and were driven to the grounds.

The train made good time, and when all had arrived, the festivities were immediately opened. During the remainder of the afternoon, many who had not participated in the parade arrived at the grounds, and the attendance was the largest on record.

The opening feature was an excellent luncheon served by Caterer Harvey and his staff. The food was of the most enjoyable "numbers" on the program. Late in the afternoon a very appetizing dinner was served. In the meantime the sports were run off. The first event was a ball game between teams representing the married men and the single men. The game was one replete with fast and exciting playing and after eight innings was called with the married men on the long end of a 5 to 4 score. Harry Pitts and Bob Ganley, the battery men for the winners were in fine form, and were mainly responsible for the defeat of the bachelors. In the lineup were many whose names have frequently appeared in box scores, and for an outing game it was a corker.

The lineup of the teams were: Married Men: Ganley p. Pitts c. McNally lb. Cox 2b. Dowd 3b. Roland ss. Kenyon rf. Lyons of. Mahan if.

Single Men: Tyrell p. Gookin c. Sullivan lb. Helmer 2b. Kelley ss. Manabing 3b. Hart rf. Robitaille of. McLaughlin if.

Harry Goldman acted as umpire and his work was very satisfactory.

The winning team was presented a beautiful cup, the gift of Fred Pilling.

The pillow fight, always a feature at Elks' outings, was better than ever this year. Many there were who went up only to come down on the first wallop, and the way that John McMahon drop-

During the entire afternoon there was a musical program that made a great hit with all. The selections by the Elks' band were of a high order, the program embracing the popular, sentimental and classical. All numbers were given in a manner that reflected great credit on the musicians. The handmen were not the only pellets on the grounds, however. In the musical line for the Honey Boy four, composed of Leonard Brown, James Lyons, Joseph Perry and Edward Handley, were there. The way these talented artists handed out selections stamped them as entertainers of the first class. They sang, and then sang and finally sang some more, but there was not a one in the crowd who did not enjoy every selection. Their program was varied and unique, and every number was given in true professional style.

When the last number was given, the applause was tumultuous and performers, bandmen and singers alike, were given a great hand. It was now about time for the special train, and all prepared for the return to the city. When the special arrived, all wended their way to the crossing, elated with the success of the outing and warmly congratulating all those who had in any way contributed to its success. While the names of the committee were published in yesterday's Sun, the work of every member was so efficient that all are entitled to again getting "honorable mention." The general committee was composed of the following: James H. Walker, chairman; Arthur T. Cull, secretary; Joseph Haggerty, treasurer; William Scott, John J. Lee, Fred H. Bourke, James E. Donnelly, Edwin W. Kilpatrick, Eugene Y. Brown, John J. Healey, Joseph F. Burns, Max L. Katze, John J. Dawson, William H. Mahon, Edward J. Handley, Samuel Scott, Harry Pitts, Christopher J. Hagan, Thomas H. Kelley, Elias J. McQuade, Charles F. Gilmore.

OUTING NOTES

"Good bye, Bill."

The Elks were prepared.

The prizes were awarded by Mayor O'Donnell.

The brothers from Somerville came in a beautifully decorated auto.

Guests were present from many lodges throughout New England.

Genial "Joe" Haggerty was pleased to hear all exclaim "The best ever."

William Scott, exalted ruler, did his share to make the outing a success.

Dan O'Dea and John McMahon gave a great exhibition in the pillow fight.

Mayor O'Donnell was well received by all.

Harry Pitts showed that he is still considerable of a ball player.

The parade, with all marchers carrying the national colors, was a pretty spectacle.

Cull, former secretary of the Elks for the following "talk" on the subject: "William B. Meyers, of Philadelphia lodge, grand exalted ruler in the early nineties, was the man responsible for the popular greeting which is now the watchword in Elksdom throughout the world. He had been elected to the high office at the Salt Lake City convention, and the following year he went to Atlantic City. He was a big, grand natured, jovial fellow and the crowd that assembled at the station to greet him joined in shouting: 'Hello, Bill,' when he arrived. Since that time 'Hello Bill' is always heard at meetings and other affairs of the Elks."

BRYAN OUR ONLY ORATOR

Prof. Hannay at New England Conference Complains of Neglect of Study of Public Speaking

BOSTON, Aug. 18.—William Jennings Bryan is the only orator in the United States worthy of mention, according to Prof. M. C. Hannay of the English department at Acadia university, Nova Scotia, in his comments on oral speaking at the closing session of the New England public speaking conference yesterday afternoon at Emerson hall, Harvard.

Prof. Smith said that in England there never has been a period without one or more orators of note. He said the study of oral English has been neglected in the United States. American colleges, he feels, give too much attention to scientific subjects.

Prof. John Corsa of Amherst presided. The discussion was led by Prof. H. R. Shepherd of the University of Cincinnati. Prof. Bromley Smith of Bucknell university presented a resolution favoring a three-hour-a-week minimum period in colleges for the study of "public speech," as he would have public speaking and its various phases designated.

FACES NEW CHARGE

"Birth Control" Case Witness Accused by Police of Obstructing Public Justice

BOSTON, Aug. 18.—Frederick Hill, 19, of Charlestown, now in Charles street jail in lieu of $500 bail as a witness in the Van Kleek Allison "birth control" case, will be brought into municipal court today to face a charge of obstructing public justice. Hill is married and lives at 33 Medford street, Charlestown. At Station 15, the police say, there are warrants charging him with nonsupport and with assault and battery on his wife. It is alleged that Hill was seen talking to some of the factory girls of whom Allison is alleged to have given "birth control" literature and the police claim that he was trying to influence them not to testify against the "birth control" advocate.

"I wish you could tell me just how to keep the refrigerator sweet and clean this hot weather," remarked Marjorie to Marie, as she entered with a wrinkle above her pretty brows and a worried droop to her mouth. "For keeping the refrigerator sweet smelling, employ charcoal in lumps. Nothing is so efficacious. A little bit goes a long way," responded Marie. "The daily cleaning of the refrigerator is disastrous to the supply of ice when done in a slovenly manner. Some servants mix this task in with dishwashing and morning work, producing it unnecessarily. In reality, it should be done with dispatch and system. These directions are worth considering."

"Before cleaning the refrigerator remove all articles of food to a table or a shelf within easy access. Have ready in the stationary tubs or an ordinary washtub plenty of hot water, softened with a dash of household ammonia and good white soap which is free from odor. Plunge into this all the shelves and movable fixtures, including the tray on which the ice rests. The ice should be wrapped in newspaper and set in the coldest spot available. When the fixtures are washed set them in the sun to air and sweeten."

"With the same suds wash the walls of the refrigerator, rinsing thoroughly the last two times with cold water. Bring in the fixtures, dip them in cold water, fit them into the refrigerator, remove the paper from the ice, return it to the proper compartment, lay a newspaper over it and shut the door. Then as quickly as possible return all food to its proper place and shut up the refrigerator."

VAGARIES OF CANDIDATE HUGHES

It seems that Candidate Hughes is not making much of an impression in the west in his hot air campaign except with the women. His criticism of President Wilson's administration is so weak that it falls flat. When he says that Wilson might have prevented the Lusitania disaster, and might have restored order in Mexico by a different policy, he is simply dealing in undemonstrated theories, a species of campaign material of which Hughes seems to have an unlimited supply. He criticizes Wilson's methods, but he does not say what he would have done under similar circumstances. This is the worst kind of evasion; it is political claptrap of the cheapest sort. He already sees it does not advance his cause. He finds the people cannot be fooled as easily as he had supposed; and even the republican leaders have objected to his output as vague and indefinite. It amounts to indiscriminate assaults unsupported by facts or by the logic of events.

Already the country is surprised that a man who held an honored position in one of the highest tribunals in the world, could so readily divest himself of his judicial dignity and descend to the status of a hack politician misrepresenting men and measures, distorting the truth and sacrificing every principle of dignity, decency and honor to catch votes.

But Mr. Hughes has discovered that his attempts to discredit the Wilson administration have been an utter failure. Hence he now turns to deal with the future, the need of placing the nation's affairs in "responsible hands" after the war. That is a pertinent subject to discuss; and every reasonable citizen of this republic should see that the men who steered the ship of state safely through all the perils of war and at the same time brought about the highest degree of prosperity reached in the nation's history, can safely be entrusted with responsibility for the next four years. While Candidate Hughes is thus pleading for a return to republican control and claiming that the democrats cannot be trusted with the new situation that will arise, yet he fails to tell the public that the republican party has fought the shipping bill and every other democratic measure planned to meet the future contingencies of which Mr. Hughes speaks.

The Wilson administration has had to deal with problems vastly greater than those which will come after the war and these were all handled in the most able and capable manner. No president since Lincoln has made such a splendid record nor has any shown such eminent ability as did President Wilson. It is not strange that for this reason such eminent editorial authorities as the Springfield Republican comes out boldly in support of President Wilson. In a strong editorial the Springfield paper says:

"Mr. Wilson, in the face of difficulties and criticism such as have confronted no president since Lincoln, has accomplished much. To declare his foreign policy futile is idle. The conclusive answer is contained in the bitter protests of the radical faction in Germany that the German submarines have been caught 'in a net of notes.' The outstanding fact is that Mr. Wilson, without bringing the United States into war, has forced a recognition of neutral rights.

"With relation to Mexico, Mr. Wilson has grasped the underlying principle that we shall not have a permanently peaceful neighbor to the south of us until the most patent wrongs under which the masses of the Mexican people have suffered are righted through their own efforts. The recognition of this principle in the long run means the minimum of evil to this country from the Mexican problem. It is to Mr. Wilson's everlasting credit that in spite of difficulties, discouragements, and possibly of incidental mistakes, he has not wavered in his endeavor to apply this principle to the changing circumstances of the times."

The republicans hunger for office, Wall street is offering odds on Hughes because if he were elected Wall street would again become a dominating factor in shaping the policies of our government. Moreover, the erstwhile trusts and combines that ruled congress under republican sanction are longing for a return to the policies under which they were the beneficiaries of special privilege and a tariff that was simply prohibitive. If, as republicans allege, such a protective tariff is essential to our prosperity, how is it that under a democratic tariff we now enjoy prosperity rarely if ever surpassed in this country?

Verily the empty platitudes by which Hughes is endeavoring to fool the people are too transparent, too obviously absurd to fool anybody.

PRODUCTION OF AMMUNITION

England has made the announcement that she is now in a position to supply practically all the munitions she needs from her own factories, a fact which shows that she has made great progress in the direction of home production of all the necessities of war. At the opening of the war, she was found unprepared, her store of ammunition was adequate only for ordinary needs and therefore, wholly deficient for the demands of war. She began to build factories, and although there was at first some friction with the labor unions, the men soon became reconciled to the new conditions, many of them preferring to work quietly in the ammunition factories at good pay rather than go to meet almost certain death at the front. As the product of the English factories increased, the volume of foreign orders diminished and as a result, when present contracts shall have been finished, there will be no more from England.

What is true of England in this respect is largely true also of France and Russia so that henceforth, there will be fewer orders for ammunition from these countries as well as from England.

The New York Evening Post noting the prospect of a coming slump, says:

"From all over the globe our steel trade is receiving orders for ship plates for merchant vessels, while it is widely reported that no war-material orders are being given to run after January 1 next. This may be in part due to the increased production of British and Russian factories; none the less, it is possible to deduce some belief in a lightening of Europe's horizon. So far as our own war-order companies are concerned, it was announced recently that the Du Pont powder-mills had cut off one shift of men, and the Westinghouse Air-Brake company is dismantling some of the buildings it used for the making of munitions. In addition, there are known to be numerous cases where plans are already under way to convert mushroom war-order plants into factories for the production of tin-plate, dye-stuffs, and other material needed in the peaceful arts."

The New York Evening Sun said recently, quoting the representative of a foreign government here:

"A maximum of production of shells, etc. in your country will be reached in October. There may be some falling off in the business previous to that time, but in the late fall and winter the decline will be general."

These conditions will have a bearing on the local ammunition factories in reducing the orders and especially in easing up upon the rapidly with which all the remaining orders shall be filled. Should there be any large reduction in the number of people employed by the United States Cartridge company, no doubt the local mills will be able to take care of a considerable number of them; but the mills will not pay nearly so high a rate of wages as is being paid in the ammunition factories. There are at present over 5,000 men and women employed in the United States Cartridge shops and should even one half of them be thrown out of employment, the result would be a serious blow not only to the employees affected but to the city at large. It is just as well that all concerned should realize that the foreign demand for ammunition will not continue much longer and that anything done now to obstruct the business may drive some of the remaining orders elsewhere and bring about a general curtailment of local production sooner than would otherwise be the case.

Should there be any large reduction in the number of people employed by the United States Cartridge company, no doubt the local mills will be able to take care of a considerable number of them; but the mills will not pay nearly so high a rate of wages as is being paid in the ammunition factories. There are at present over 5,000 men and women employed in the United States Cartridge shops and should even one half of them be thrown out of employment, the result would be a serious blow not only to the employees affected but to the city at large. It is just as well that all concerned should realize that the foreign demand for ammunition will not continue much longer and that anything done now to obstruct the business may drive some of the remaining orders elsewhere and bring about a

DOLLAR DAY SALE

Judging from the large crowds of shoppers that appeared upon the streets Wednesday and the general satisfaction expressed by the merchants, the Dollar Day sale must have been quite successful. The result is but another proof that whenever the merchants have real bargains to offer and make this fact known through the newspapers, those who are always looking for opportunities to save a dollar—and who is not?—will get down town to secure what they want at reduced prices. Thus it is, that advertising of the right kind pays. The Lowell merchants realize this; and the people are becoming more and more accustomed to watch the advertisements in this daily paper so as to avail of every opportunity of buying their household needs at the lowest prices.

The Dollar Day sale also shows how local business may be stimulated by combined efforts on the part of the merchants. It demonstrates too, that even in the hottest part of the summer when most people are supposed to be on vacation, there are always enough shoppers in town to crowd the stores where bargains are offered and to take due advantage of all these sales, whether the purchase limit be one, five or ten dollars.

THE TAX RATE

The fact that the tax rate has not reached a higher figure than $21.20 in view of all our large municipal expenditures, is perhaps a cause for felicitation. It is 40 cents higher than that of last year and 70 cents lower than the rate in 1914. But for the elimination of valuable property seized on Kirk street for a high school site and other property seized in connection with the Dummer street extension, the rate might have been kept down to or even below last year's figures. We surmise that the average tax-payer will feel that all things considered, the rate is as low as could have been expected.

SEEN AND HEARD

Some of us think that if we had Rockefeller's money we would do a lot of good, but how much good have we done with the little that we have?

One trouble with arguing with a man to convince him that he is wrong is that it takes a long time, and even if you spend a long time trying to convince him, you generally can't do it.

Even at some of the fashionable hotels where "an excellent cuisine" is advertised, the cooking's bum.

Why not make a collection of a million dollars in Mexican currency? It wouldn't cost you much.

A fat soldier doesn't get any bigger pay than a thin one, even though he may be twice as likely to get hit.

Every successful minister knows that sermons in the summer should be shorter than sermons in the winter time.

Even when you see a girl cutting from the paper an article headed, "How to Entertain Fifty Guests," it may be a long time before she gets married.

True enough, money isn't the only thing in the world, but money will buy a lot of other things.

Listen, Suffragettes
The following likely story is told on the mayor of a western city, unnamed by Harper's Monthly:

A small boy, who afterward proved to be a nephew of one of the mayor's stenographers, was wandering about the city hall when one of the officials there happened upon him.

"Well, sonny," inquired the man, genially, "for whom are you looking?"
"For my Aunt Kate."

"Can't you find her?"
"I can't seem to."

"And don't you know where she is?"
"Not exactly. She's in here, somewhere, though, and I know that the mayor works in her office."

Peered Food Shortage
A Boston man tells of an old-time deacon in Massachusetts known for the lengthy blessing which at his table was the unvarying prelude to every meal. His hired man, Tom Morgan, an unconverted and impatient you had fallen into the habit of commencing his meal before the blessing had been fully invoked.

The town and rebuke of the deacon were of no avail in effecting the desired reform. Righteously indignant, the deacon at length gave utterance to this petition to the deity: "For what we are about to receive, and for what Thomas Morgan has already received, accept our thanks."

Couldst Fool Him
Years ago, when telephones were still a novelty, a farmer came to town one day and called on a lawyer friend of his whom he supplied with butter and who had a telephone recently put in his office.

"Need any butter this morning?" asked the farmer.

"Well, I don't know," answered the lawyer. "Wait a minute. I'll ask my wife about it."

After speaking through the telephone he went on: "No; my wife says no."

The farmer's face was a study for a moment. Then he broke out with: "Look-a-here, I may be a hayseed, but I ain't such a big fool as to believe that your wife is in that there box."—Washington Post.

For War Crutches
A Canadian soldier who has been returned to his home, after being kept for some months at a wounded prisoner in a German hospital, was permitted to retain his crutches which are of great interest to his home people as an example of German ingenuity. They are adjustable so that they can be utilized as conveniently by a giant eight feet tall as by a midget. In addition to their adjustable height, the crutches are exceedingly light in weight and are also strong enough to bear and reasonably strain. It is said that several large factories in Germany are now working full speed turning out these crutches to meet the demand. An interesting fact is that many of the workers in the factory are war cripples of some kind and that the perfection of the crutches is largely due to suggestions made by men who have to use them.

A Blow to Pride
The newly elected mayor of a certain town was about to make his first journey in that capacity through the place. The townspeople had arranged that from an arch of flowers under which he was to pass a floral crown should hang, surmounted by the words: "He well deserves it."

But when the wind blew away the crown and when the pompous mayor passed under the arch, to the great joy of those who voted against him only a rope with a noose at the end of it dangled there with "He well deserves it" standing out in bold relief above it.

Grayfish
The dogfish—so they tell us—is a most repulsive beast.

But the grayfish—so they tell us—is all right.

The record of the dogfish is very black indeed.

But the record of the grayfish is all white.

The dogfish is a grisly shark, and quite unfit to eat.

You wouldn't eat a dogfish if you could.

The creature's name alone would take away your appetite.

But the grayfish is quite succulent and good.

So when you order dinner get some grayfish from the man.

Remember now, that grayfish is the name.

And maybe you'll enjoy it, if perchance you do not know.

That the dogfish and the grayfish are the same.

ALTITUDES IN MAINE
The highest point in the state of Maine thus far recorded is Katahdin mountain, in Piscataquis county, 5,275 feet above main sea level. This is one of many elevations noted in Bulletin 633, entitled "Spirit Leveling in Maine, 1899 to 1915, inclusive," just issued by the United States Geological Survey, department of the Interior.

The bulletin is to a considerable extent a dictionary of altitudes, as it contains a list of about 750 elevations determined by the Geological Survey in connection with its topographic mapping of the state. In addition there is a list of about 150 altitudes of well-known summits, water-surface elevations of prominent lakes, and other useful elevations. The state contributed financially to the work.

The new bulletin is one of a series of similar reports being published by the Geological Survey and should be of considerable advantage to surveyors and engineers who have occasion to use benchmark elevations in laying out railroads or other public works where accuracy of elevation is necessary.

The report is a guide to the bench marks that have been set by the Survey engineers, for while the numbers stamped on the bench marks represent the elevations, in the nearest foot as determined by the levelman, the bulletin gives the exact elevations to thousandths of a foot of the points thus marked.

A copy of Bulletin 633 may be obtained free on application to the director of the Geological Survey, Washington, D. C.

DEUTSCHLAND SIGHTED

U-Boat in Mid-Ocean—Escaped Ramming by Submerging, Say Men on Schem

BOSTON, Aug. 15.—The first information, however authentic it may prove to be, that the German merchant submarine Deutschland had safely passed the cordon of British and French war vessels awaiting her outside the Virginia capes, came to Boston yesterday, borne by American horsemen returning on the Warren line steamship Schem, from Liverpool to this port.

These witnesses declared in full sincerity that the German freighter in mid-ocean escaped a ramming by submerging, and later forced the Schem to flee in fear of an underwater attack.

The British officers of the Schem, in less convincing terms, corroborated the Americans' statement.

Boy Snow of Orleans, a returning horseman, claims the distinction of being the first to sight the submarine. This was about 10 o'clock on the morning of Aug. 12.

Saw Only Conning Tower

Officers of the Schem to whom he spoke only saw the conning tower and periscope and decided that they had sighted a wreck. Their opinion was changed, however, when, as the Schem made for the point of submergence, the strange craft came to the surface and went ahead at full speed, heading on a northeasterly course in the general direction of Iceland, and bound apparently for the north passage around Scotland and thence into the North sea.

The Schem, partly out of curiosity and partly for love of the chase, followed the submarine for several miles, until the latter again disappeared under water. Then caution possessed the ship's officers and, taking no chances on the discharge of a torpedo, though they had been led to believe that the Deutschland was unarmed, they abandoned the pursuit, turned about and headed with all due circumspection for American shores.

George J. Watts ship's painter of 53 Chambers street, Boston, and Wallace D. Potter, an electrician, of 28 Arlington street, Lynn, bore out Snow's version of the encounter.

Capt. Ritchie refused to discuss the matter, but referred to Second Officer Hughes, who was on duty when the submarine was sighted. Neither officer would affirm the statements of the horsemen that the Schem made for the point of submergence, but the Schem's own log, which was taken up by the Schem's crew, showed that the ship was on the surface of the water and soon the outline of the submarine could be made out even with the naked eye.

Ordered Not to Talk

This is the first authentic news of the Deutschland received since she sailed from Baltimore and eluded the blockade fleet.

None of the officers on the Schem would speak for publication, as they are under orders of the British admiralty not to give out information relative to the movement of vessels. Horsemen, said, though, that before arriving in port they were free in discussing the incident, and all were positive that it was the Deutschland they had passed.

As the submarine left Baltimore on Aug. 1, she would be about in mid-ocean on Saturday, and by this time probably in Germany. She could make the passage in about 16 days, it was said.

The excitement on the Schem started after she had discharged her cargo of horses at the French port of LaPallice and was making for Liverpool, with the remainder of her cargo and to load for this port. As soon as she left the harbor two German submarines lying in wait, gave chase.

Orders for full speed ahead were given. Every one not engaged in firing the engines was commanded to keep on deck and be prepared to enter the lifeboats the minute the enemy fired a torpedo. The freighter tore through the water at the rate of 44 knots an hour. Stokers were worked to the limit and they heaved coal as they never did before. Some fell by their fire boxes, exhausted, and American horsemen volunteered to take their places at the fire holes. Among those aiding in this work were James Curley of 500 South street, Quincy; Jere Casey of 12 Pritchburg street, Somerville, and Harvey Clark of Chicago.

The chase was kept up for eight weary hours, with the submarines gaining slowly but surely on the British boat. A wireless for help was sent out by order of Capt. Ritchie and was finally answered by a fleet of 14 British patrol boats. They opened fire on the German submarines and forced them to submerge. Still the Schem was chased almost to the mouth of the Mersey.

TAX RATE FOR 1916

ASSESSOR O'SULLIVAN MAKES STATEMENT RELATIVE TO DECLARATION OF THE RATE

Discussing the tax rate of $21.20 for 1916 as against $20.50 for 1915, as announced in The Sun yesterday, Jeremiah O'Sullivan, member of the board of assessors, said:

"We have suffered from the taking out of the taxable list the property seized by the city for an addition to the high school, the seizure of the area for the Dummer street extension, and in a reduction of valuation made by the assessors in various sections, the determination of certain neighborhoods necessitating a lower valuation. In no part of the city have we increased valuations, except on the land in Central street between Merrimack Square and Tower's Corner, and in view of many changes being made there, or about to be made there, for the betterment of the section, it was deemed wise to increase the land valuation."

"We have had to contend with the

BE MODERATE IN YOUR DIET AND REDUCE YOUR WEIGHT. TAKE OIL OF KOREIN.

Lack of fresh air it is said weakens the oxygen carrying power of the blood, the liver becomes sluggish, fat accumulates and the action of many of the vital organs are hindered. The heart action becomes weak, work is an effort and the beauty of the figure is destroyed.

Put on by indoor life is unhealthy and a nature is not assisted in throwing it off a serious case of obesity may result.

When you feel that you are getting too stout, take the matter in hand at once. Don't wait until your figure has become a joke and your health ruined through carrying around a burden of unsightly and unhealthy fat.

loss of considerable personal property, through the removal of the Bigelow Carpet Co. and the Merrimack Print Works, and the changing of the American Woolen Co. into a Massachusetts corporation, thereby taking away a direct tax on its stock.

"On the other hand, they have had the benefit of the growth of new plants for the manufacture of munitions, such as the International Steel Ordnance Co. in Middlesex street and the U. S. Cartridge Co. in Lawrence street, and also the coming of a new corporation here, the Bay State Cotton Corporation. The past year has also been a fairly good one in the building line."

BRICK AND TILE PRODUCTS

The value of the brick and tile products of the United States in 1915, according to the United States Geological Survey, Department of the Interior, was $125,794,844. Three varieties of brick and tile and miscellaneous products increased in value in 1915, compared with 1914. Front brick, valued at $5,535,536, increased $245,913, or nearly 5 per cent. over 1914; drain tile, valued at $8,379,264, increased $857,225, or 10 per cent.; fire brick valued at $18,839,931, increased $2,412,354, or nearly 13 per cent.; and miscellaneous products, valued at $3,716,014, increased $551,130, or 17 per cent. There was a decrease of the total product of about 3 per cent.

The product that showed the greatest decline was sewer pipe. Common brick and terra cotta also showed decreases compared with 1914. The decrease in these industries occurred during the early months of the year, but the conditions improved during the last three or four months of the year, the year closing with bright prospects for 1916.

MOLFETTA, ITALY

Subject of the Bulletin

Issued by National Geographic Society

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 15.—Molfetta, the seaport of Italy which was shelled by Austrian torpedo boats recently, is the subject of the following geographical bulletin issued by the National Geographic Society from its Washington headquarters.

"The shipbuilding yards of Molfetta were probably the chief targets of the Austrian navy during the recent bombardment. While the town presents a striking appearance from the sea, its walls, studded with towers, are of a former age when such defenses were of effective against pillaging expeditions of freebooters and adventurers."

"With a population of more than 40,000, Molfetta is one of the thriving commercial centers of the southeastern coast of Italy. In addition to its trade as a seaport the city has numerous manufacturing establishments, producing flour, soaps, wines, bricks and vermilion. Sixteen miles of rail to the southeast is the important town of Bari (the Barium of the ancients)."

"Evidence of a neolithic settlement have been found in the vicinity of Molfetta, but the origin of the present town is uncertain. It began to figure in European history during the sixteenth century when Charles V bestowed it upon the duke of Termoli. No sooner had it passed into the possession of his new master than the ill-starred marshal of France, Odet de Foix, Lautrec, descended upon it and sacked it in the prosecution of his campaign against the kingdom of Naples. Lautrec, though a gallant soldier, owed his advancement in the service of the French king, Francis I, not to his prowess in arms but to the fact that the charms of his sister, Françoise de Chateaubriant, had fascinated his sovereign. He died in Italy a victim of the plague which decimated his army shortly after the sacking of Molfetta."

"Molfetta was one of the cities of southern Italy in which serious disturbances occurred in May 1908, when there was a sudden increase in the price of bread."

"The most picturesque building in the medieval section of Molfetta is the cathedral, which like the cathedral in upon your size. Two rows of different patterned val lace are added to the top of the ribbon and one row to the bottom. Net gathered over rubber banding finishes the camisole at the waist line. Triangular shaped pieces made a more substantial top when worn under thin waists, though ribbon straps would be more easy to make. Narrow ribbon is run through the beading which joins lace to the insertion to hold in the extra fullness of the square neck.

"For the woman who requires snazzy there is the lace trimmed brassiere, the lower part made of heavy, coarsely knitted fabric. Three-inch elastic lace is used, tordion would do just as well. The wide insertion curves from under the arms to the front where it joins the heavier portion, and the lace at the neck follows the same line. The back of the brassiere follows the same 'V' shape, using both insertion and edging, though you may omit the former. Very narrow edging of the same pattern as the wide lace is used to define the armholes. Ribbon shoulder straps make a dainty finish to this practical brassiere."

THE FRENCH MAID SAYS

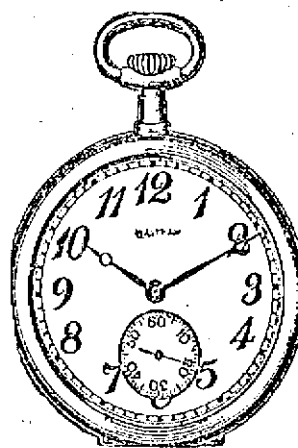

MAKING A CAMISOLE

"Isn't that a dear?" exclaimed Marie as she delightedly lifted from the couch in her aunt's boudoir a new and delicately fluffy camisole, that had just been sent home as a result of a shopping trip indulged in by Madame. "Which I had one just like it," she concluded.

"You can make one just like it yourself," said Marie and Madame's eyes began to sparkle.

"A lace-and-ribbon camisole which should successfully add a semblance of plumpness to the slender woman's appearance, is so simply made that any fairly experienced housewife can easily duplicate it. It is made of handkerchief linen, crepe de chine, washable satin, or china silk, combined with lace, would be appropriate for this camisole, and to make it still more easy to copy, ribbon shoulder straps might take the place of the more elaborate fitted lace ones."

"The width of the ribbon used—if you have decided upon that as the principal part of the camisole—depends upon whether you have decided to use one, two or three rows of lace insertions on either side, and just as much

LABOR DAY PARADE

PLANS FOR BIG TURNOUT PRACTICALLY COMPLETED AT MEETING HELD LAST EVENING

Plans for the monster Labor day parade were practically completed at a meeting of the Trades & Labor council held last evening at 32 Middle street. The meeting was attended by representatives of the various local labor organizations and a feature of the evening was the drawing of lots for places in the parade.

According to a statement issued last evening this year's parade will be one of the best in the history of the Trades & Labor council and it is expected that over 5000 people will participate. The route of the parade as decided last evening will be as follows: Thorndike street to Middlesex, to Gorham to Davis square, to Central street to Merrimack, to Bridge, to Sixth, counter-march to Merrimack to Moody, to Cabot, to Merrimack, to be reviewed at city hall by the city government and at Monument square by the chief marshal and staff and dismissed.

The first division will form in Summer street, right facing Thorndike; the second in Thorndike street, right facing Summer; the third in Highland street, right facing Thorndike and the fourth in South street, right facing Highland.

After the drawing of lots at the meeting the roster of the parade was announced as follows:

First division—Trades and Labor Council.

Second division—(Building Trades) Building laborers: Local 45, Carpenters: Local 1468, Carpenters: Local 1610, Carpenters: Local 72, Teamsters: Local 87, Teamsters: Local 35, Teamsters: Electrical Workers: Painters and Lathers.

Third division—(Miscellaneous) Local 250, Street Railway Men, Bartenders: Stationary Firemen: Leather workers: Lowell Textile Council, including the wooden and cotton spinners and weavers, loomfixers and other branches: Local 551, Street Railway Men: Brewery Bottlers: Paviors and Barbers: Barbers and Steam and Operating Engineers.

Fourth division—(Metal Trades) Billerica car-shop employees, including the Blacksmiths, Machinists and Helpers, Boiler-makers and others: Moulders and U. S. Cartridge shop employees.

The following additional aides were announced at last night's meeting of the council: Alex. Shapiro, Local 57, Blacksmiths; Andrew Shannon, Building Laborers; Thomas J. Donnelly, Local 88, Teamsters; Arthur Holstein, Local 1468, Carpenters; E. P. Taylor, Local 49, Carpenters; Joseph Bradley, Local 715, Specialists; Omar Lahn, Local 1610, Carpenters; Henry Beauparlant, Local 37, Teamsters.

The following credentials of delegates to the council were received: Local 39, Painters, William Hollingsworth, Thomas Morrison, F. Sawyer, Felix Guyette, William Reid, John Murphy and William Couture. Local 559, Woolen Spinners, George McBride, John Glispin, John Maguire, and Fred Taylor.

Local 11,509, Leather Workers, Joseph Donnelly, Joseph Isabella, Jr., John Moran, Benjamin Williston, Joseph Reid, William Bregnan and Charles Shanley.

Dye Grinders and Polishers, David Manning, Thomas Crowe, Patrick Burns, John Carly and Herbert Kenyon.

Local 141, Paving Cutters Union, Leonard Perkins, Andrew Welch, John Morgan, William Johns, Frank Hardy, Patrick O'Neil and John A. Chapman.

The name was so unusual that at first glance I thought that Lowell's crack catcher of a century ago, Louie Guinasso had passed away, but happily Louie is still with us, and is prospering among his fellow countrymen of the North End district in Boston, the deceased being a brother of the former Lowell player. Guinasso played for a number of seasons behind the bat for Lowell and was a regular mainstay, for no matter what shifts and shake-ups took place, Guinasso and Jim Cudworth were always retained. Guinasso was a hard and a conscientious worker, though not a particularly quick thinker, and sometimes he'd pull a home-run play, whereupon the fans would ride him unmercifully and he'd take their criticism much to heart, and wouldn't really recover until he had done something fine, when the smile would return to his face and he'd go back to the coach line full of pep. In the old days the ball players made their headquarters at the Old Washington Tavern, when Bill Hawes and Arthur Whitney had it and subsequently when the late Martin Courtney conducted the old hostelry. Quarter of a century ago or thereabouts, bicycles were just coming into popularity and Guinasso became the proud owner of one of them. Every evening, after supper, provided the team had won, and Guinasso had played a fairly good game, he'd mount his wheel at the Tavern and ride down Central to Merrimack, to Dutton, to Thorndike and back via Middlesex street, while the admiring fans on the sidewalks would greet him with: "Hello, Guinasso, old Sport." "You're all right, Guinasso," and similar expressions of good will which tickled him mightily.

But if it happened that the team had lost that afternoon, or that Guinasso had pulled a bone during its progress, no amount of coaxing could get him away from the Tavern veranda for that evening.

Some few years after Guinasso had left the diamond, in the days when the order of Hogs were in the height of their prosperity, a convention of the Hogsan lodges of Lowell, Boston and Brockton was held in Boston and a party of Lowell members headed by William W. Murphy, the well known Middlesex street business man went to the club to attend the convention. At the conclusion of the business meeting it was suggested that the Lowell crowd go down to the North End and look up old Gunny. They found him large as life and wearing a broad smile purveying delectable products of the vineyards of sunny Italy with a background of innumerable lattice-work encased bottles, made nowhere but in Italy. Gunny was delighted to meet his old friend, and after showing them where they could procure the finest of spaghetti prepared by a chef who had done service for a near relative of old Garibaldi, he took them through the North End and showed them the sights. When last heard of, Gunny was still at the North End, and doing well.

THE OLD TIMER.

USING UP VITALITY

The struggle for success uses up vitality in America at a greater rate than any other thing. Fighting to keep away from the poor-house we shorten the distance to the grave.

Especially in middle age, at forty or thereabouts, do we become impressed with the necessity of laying up a competence and with that feeling in time comes worry, nervous breakdown, neurasthenia. The entire system feels the result of the nervous strain. The digestion resents things that it accepted before, the heart palpitates on slight exertion, the muscles of the back ache after a day's work. Your blood is thinner and not so bright a red.

When these things occur, whether you are fourteen or forty, you need a tonic. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills suit most people's need because they are non-alcoholic and they really build up the blood and strengthen the nerves. They are useful for growing children and for men and women whose nervous energy has been overtaxed.

Your druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or they will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes $2.50 by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Write today for free booklet on the blood and nerves.

CATHOLIC WEEK PLANS

THREE CARDINALS AND 20,000 DELEGATES TO ATTEND CONVENTION IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Meetings preliminary to the Catholic week of conventions of Catholic societies began here today with the opening session of the Catholic Press association and a preparatory meeting of the committee on social propaganda of the German Catholic central Verein.

The joint convention of the Catholic societies will begin Sunday with a pontifical mass in St. Patrick's cathedral with Cardinal Farley as celebrant, and Bishop Healy of Rochester, N. Y., as preacher. Three special thrones have been erected in the chancel for the use of Cardinals Gibbons and O'Connell and Archbishop Bonanza. Eight thousand persons are expected to attend the convention. Twenty delegates will take part in the convention. The sessions will continue until Thursday, Aug. 24.

STRIKE AT NEW HAVEN

UNION LEADERS CLAIM 2500 MEN OUT—OFFICIALS SAY ONLY ONE HUNDRED

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 18.—When the regular day force went into the Winchester Repeating Firearms company's plant this morning there was no evidence of accessions to the ranks of those machinists and metal workers who struck yesterday for the 8-hour day. The big plant has had the three-shift system for months. When the whistles blew and the gates swung inward hundreds of men and women who are through for the day and others who are starting for work came through. Usually the passing out dispersed. The agitation led many to linger about the gates today. The groups were of good size, but observers could not identify strikers from the workers. The organizers of the machinists' international union last night claimed to have taken out 2500 men. The company said that not over 100 men had left their work. Police officers who were liberally stationed throughout the Winchester section agreed in their statements that the strikers numbered only a few score.

THE NEW HORSEMOBILE

THE MOXIE COMPANY ALWAYS HAS SOMETHING NEW—HORSE-MOBILE THE CLEVEREST "AD" YET

The Moxie company, manufacturers of a temperance beverage with a world-wide reputation, is noted for its advertisements, including the "Boy on the Box" which is considered one of the finest "ads" ever displayed, but when it comes to a unique form of advertising the Horse-Mobile has got them all going.

The Horse-Mobile made its appearance in Lowell yesterday. By special request and because of the fact that this city is the birthplace of Moxie the company sacrificed many important engagements so that everybody might see the famous Moxie Horse-Mobile. It toured the streets of the city in the morning and was also in the Elks parade in the afternoon.

The Horse-Mobile is the invention of Mr. F. M. Archer of the Moxie company and is a well proportioned white horse minus his pedal extremities from his knees down. This horse is placed on a platform of an automobile and the jockey astride the horse has his feet in what appear to be stirrups, but the stirrups on the off side of the horse is in reality the clutch of the automobile which the other stirrup is for the brake. The steering is done by a small wheel which protrudes from the back of the horse's neck.

J. D. Doucette, formerly of this city, is the jockey-driver and he wears a Moxie uniform made up of advertising patches that attract attention.

The imitation horse is so real to life that many persons until they get a very close look at the invention are of the opinion that the horse is riding on the automobile.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE
The ways of the Paris Apaches are strikingly shown in "A Child of the Paris Streets," the big Triangle picture, which will be produced twice today and tomorrow at the B. F. Keith theatre. Something new in portraiture is offered in this picture, something entirely away from the beaten path of London. Mae Marsh, Robert Barron and Tully Marshall are offered exceptional parts in this picture. The story is one of compelling interest. "Julie," queen of the Apaches, a part played well by Jennie Lee, pleads with a judge in a French court to spare her son, who is arraigned before him, but she is deaf to her entreaties and sentences the youth to the galleys. The old woman vows revenge. And her opportunity comes soon after, when she kidnaps the daughter of the judge. The little girl, taken from a home of refinement, is reared as an Apache. She is taught to commit all the crimes peculiar to the Paris slumsters. But she tells and she finally rebels against her tutors. She is threatened with death by strangulation unless she obeys, but she succeeds in running away. She finds shelter in the study of a young American, who is studying in the Latin quarter. He finds her there, and falls in love with her. She earns her living by posing as a model for him. From this time on he attempts to protect and safeguard "Julie," but one day when she ventures forth alone in the street she is seized by the gangsters and carried back to the old life. Learning of her danger the artist seeks her. The police are finally put on the trail, and there follows a thrilling fight, in which the Apaches are routed, and Julie is saved from strangulation. This is a splendid picture, with a wonderful climax to it. The comedy feature of the film is the work of "Hearts and Sparks" with the funny, serious Hank Mann making many odd moves. The invention of a wireless spark plug causes all of a lot of trouble. The last half of this picture is very, very funny. In the Hearst-International News Weekly shown, the picture having been taken at Wilhelmshaven, Germany. Among the ships shown are the Westfalen and the Kaiserin. Other good views are shown of the allied anti-aircraft guns, in action at Salenick. In view of the infantile paralysis epidemic in New York, pictures of special appropriateness are shown, having been taken in the Lincoln hospital where hundreds of the little sufferers are being given treatment. The Mutt and Jeff animated cartoon is called "The Spunkies" and is a rattling good picture. "The Informer," a Civil War picture, also comes in for much favorable comment.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Delightfully refreshing and charming is the capable little favorite, "The Little Lady Elleen," which everyone who attended the Merrimack Square theatre yesterday thoroughly enjoyed. Miss Clark in this beautiful photoplay creation appears in the role of a little Irish school girl who attends a school in Dublin, and who has undying faith in fairies and in their wonderful power over mortals. The little Irish maid has been left a large fortune, provided she marry a certain man. This she loathes to do as she has given her heart to another whose name she does not know. It appears on the marriage day that her husband-to-be is an impostor and that the man she really loves is the very same named in the will. Of course Dilemma knows that all this happiness of theirs was prearranged by the loving fairies who constantly watch over nice people and make their lives full of joy. Miss Clark again demonstrates her cleverness by depicting by her acting the mind of this simple, loving, trusting little miss. This play is one of her best. "Human Driftwood," starring Frances Nelson and Robert Warwick will also be shown at the Merrimack Square theatre performances today and tomorrow with "Little Lady Elleen" and other plays. "Human Driftwood" has a gripping appeal for every theatregoer and while the play is interesting in every scene it also conveys a strong moral. Be sure to see it.

CANOBIE LAKE

Vaudeville was resumed again at Canobie Lake park this afternoon after an intermission of one evening while the Ophelus club of Nashua had its concert. There are five big acts on the bill and much favorable enthusiasm has been heard in regard to them. "Billy" Augustine has another fine sketch entitled "Poor Old Bill" that is proving a source of much enjoyment. Chief Eagle Horse, the Alaskan Indian, has an extra, fine voice which he is displaying to its best advantage. Selden Bradford in "Bugs Capers" is another big hit on the bill. The program for the Sunday program and they will all be announced tomorrow evening so be on the lookout.

ROYAL THEATRE

A player who has always found a warm welcome in Lowell, on the speaking stage as well as in the motion picture is that strong dramatic portrayal of human emotions is Robert Edeson, who will again be seen today and tomorrow at the Royal theatre in Vitagraph's latest release, "For a Woman's Fair Name," a virile drama that suits Mr. Edeson's strong personality. His work in "Mortmain" and "The Cave-Man" has made a deep impression on Lowell public, and all indications point to another big success in the present offering, which is a straight drama of sensational situations. Other attractions will complete a corking program for the end of the week.

OWL THEATRE

When the Equitable Film Production Co. was successful in having Adele Blood sign one of its contracts, it was successful in securing one of the greatest emotional stars on the American stage today, and an actress who, in the past has gained triumphs in several of Broadway's biggest hits and an actress who is as well known to the theatregoers of London as she is to the patrons of the theatres of all the large cities of this country. Miss Blood has recently worked in her latest release, "The Devil's Toy," a powerful five-act photo-play, which will be the attraction at the cool Owl theatre today and tomorrow. Playing opposite her in this feature film is Edwin Stevens, a favorite with thousands of motion picture fans and a man who needs no introduction to long theatregoers.

NEW PHOTO-PLAY CREATION

According to the special press agent, "The Unborn" is the title of the new and remarkable motion picture play which will be the big attraction at the Merrimack Square theatre all next week, commencing Monday, Aug. 21. The story was written by George Elliot, Jr., and was produced in Colorado and New York City. It is a moral picture of unusual strength and yet embodies a tenderness of love and affection that makes for it a reputation as a picture far out of the ordinary. It is a moral picture that has never been discussed as a frank and delicate manner—birth-control. There is a moral to "The Unborn" which is as fine in its lesson as any sermon ever preached, and yet it does not tire or bore. Clearly and without ambiguity, it demonstrates that there is a law of compensation and that whatever a man sows, so shall he also reap. Therefore, it brings home the fact that a righteous and upright life wins its due reward. "The Unborn" is the motion picture features heretofore produced, in that it was produced for a purpose and that was to teach a valuable and wholesome lesson and in a frank and delicate manner. But, in so doing, it is treated in light which will not offend the most sensitive person. Rather is it a story full of human interest and a wealth of human affection making a thrilling, pulsating exposition of human life. This great moral should not go unrec'd, and it is rare opportunity for the motion picture followers of Lowell to witness a production which is a spectacle carrying an appeal to the soul, and yet it is so many of our emboldenments.

Miss Gertrude Bondhill is the featured member of the strong cast. She has starred on the legitimate stage, and has appeared with the best stock companies in the large cities of the United States. In "The Unborn" she plays three parts, each being an entirely different characterization, ranging from a sweet and winsome little girl to a woman of mature years and then a boy of the streets. Extreme naturalness is the keynote of her success on the screen, not having to depend upon camera tricks to win her audience.

Her portrayal in this photo-play brings out a foreboding and sincerity that is too seldom seen in moving picture work.

DAMAGED GOODS

Press agents have the following to say relative to this play: "Damaged Goods," the wonderful photoplay which has startled the world, will be shown at the Owl theatre all of the coming week. Wherever shown, "Damaged Goods" has created a sensation. It shows conclusively that no girl is safe while the double standard of morals exists; also that the innocent victims of the wreck and ruin of the body through sins against chastity. "Damaged Goods" has a mission to perform in plotting the young through the rocks and sandbars over which body and soul may be wrecked.

BUSY DAY FOR HUGHES

ENTERED CALIFORNIA FROM THE NORTH EARLY TODAY—MADE TRAIN TALKS

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Aug. 18.—Charles E. Hughes entered California from the north early today with a program of speech making, entertainment and conferences ahead of him that promised one of the most strenuous periods of his life. A committee of 30 waited near the Oregon line to welcome the presidential nominee and escort him to San Francisco, where he will remain for two days. Today's program included an afternoon reception at the Union League club, a talk to San Francisco women an hour later at his hotel, an address at the Civic Auditorium tonight and later a reception at the Newspapermen's club. Interest centered in the big public meeting tonight over which W. F. Crocker, national committeeman was selected to preside. Arrangements for this meeting developed a conflict between republicans and progressive leaders that has caused some bitterness.

Mr. Hughes is to try to mend the breach between the two factions. The progressives, denied the privilege of taking part in planning the meeting, are to be represented tonight by several vice presidents on the program. This chief, Gov. Hiram W. Johnson will not be present, his campaign for United States senator as both a progressive and a republican candidate having taken him to another part of the state. Before reaching San Francisco Mr. Hughes made train talks at a number of towns.

TRAFFIC HOLDUP

Traffic on Central street, between Market and Hurd streets, was at a standstill for several minutes between 6.30 and 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Ten electric cars used during the mill hours and 18 automobiles formed a line between the two aforementioned streets and prevented pedestrians crossing from one side to the other as well as blocking all inward traffic. Most of the cars were coming from the United States Cartridge Co. on Central street. Something blocked their way near Market street and in a moment the 10 cars stretched past Hurd street. Three automobiles stationed facing Merrimack square, Central street, stepped in blocking up the traffic. With the electric cars halted and the autos on the same side of the street it was impossible for inward bound vehicles to get by. Hence there was no way to get out of Warren or Hurd streets and there was a general mixup which was not straightened out. Before the street was cleared 10 electric cars were stopped and 15 motorists were waiting to come down Central street besides those trying to get out of Warren and Hurd streets.

LOWELL MASS. FRIDAY AUGUST 18 1916

NEWS FROM STATE HOUSE

Massachusetts' Share of $75,000,000 Road Bill Little More Than $1,000,000

Special to The Sun
STATE HOUSE, Boston, Aug. 18.—Massachusetts' share of the $75,000,000 road bill recently passed by congress will be only a very little more than $1,000,000, according to information obtained by Col. William D. Sohler, chairman of the highway committee, at a conference in Washington this week. It will be remembered that congress provided in the bill authorizing the appropriation, that one-third of it should be apportioned to the several states in proportion to their area; another third in proportion to their population; and the other third in "the ratio which the mileage of rural delivery routes and star routes in each state bears to the total mileage of rural delivery routes and star routes in all the states."

Only $5,000,000 of the total sum is available for the present year, and under the provisions of the act the secretary of agriculture is permitted to deduct three per cent. to cover the expense of administering its provisions. That leaves $4,625,000 to be expended this year, and of this sum Massachusetts will receive $735,555.35. Multiplying this amount by 15, it will be found that Massachusetts' total apportionment will be $1,103,333.25.

The largest apportionment goes to Texas, which will receive $2,912,222.22. Following in order come New York, $2,500,000; Pennsylvania, $2,300,000; Illinois, $2,200,000; Ohio, $1,800,000; Missouri, $1,700,000; California, $1,600,000; Iowa, $1,400,000; Michigan, $1,300,000; Kansas, $1,200,000; Minnesota, $1,100,000; Indiana, $1,000,000; Georgia, $900,000; Wisconsin, $800,000; Oklahoma, $700,000; North Carolina, $600,000; Tennessee, $500,000; Nebraska, $400,000; Alabama, $300,000; Virginia, $200,000; Montana, $150,000; Kentucky, $100,000; Arkansas, $80,000; South Dakota, $70,000; New Mexico, $60,000; Oregon, $50,000; and North Dakota, $40,000. Massachusetts, it will be noted, ranks 29th.

Pauper Support Bill

Assessors in every city and town in the state will have to begin shortly a revision of their "pauper support" lists, because of the fact that a statute passed by the legislature in 1911 has only this week taken full effect. Heretofore the law has provided that any person who is unable to support himself shall be supported by the city or town in which he had a "legal settlement," and settlement was obtained only by the payment of at least three poll taxes in five successive years. In the absence of such a settlement, the burden of support has fallen upon the commonwealth.

Now, however, the old order has changed, and the poll tax requirement has been wiped out. In its place is a provision that residence in any city or town for five successive years shall constitute a settlement, and such city or town is compelled to pay the bills. The change is expected to have a considerable effect on all of the larger cities. For example, a man lived in Boston several years ago and had a good position, paying his poll taxes regularly. Then ill health overtook him and he moved out into some small place where the cost of living was not so high. With reduced income, he decided to economize by omitting to pay his poll taxes and finally he became indigent.

In such cases, Boston has been obliged, under the old law, to support the man. Under the new law, however, five years' residence in his new home relieves Boston of responsibility, and places the burden upon the town where the man lives.

It is expected that the expense to the commonwealth will also be materially increased, as there are many poor persons of a roving disposition, who never remain for five years in a single place, and all such must hereafter be cared for at the expense of the state.

FOR NATIONAL FORESTS

TENTATIVE ALLOTMENT OF MILLION DOLLARS FOR ROADS AND TRAILS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Tentative allotment of a million dollars for construction and maintenance of roads and trails in national forests was announced today by Secretary Houston of the department of agriculture. This would be expended during the present fiscal year out of the $10,000,000 appropriated by the federal road act.

Under the terms of the act the states are required to co-operate to the extent of at least 50 per cent. of the estimated cost of surveys and construction.

Maine, New Hampshire, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Georgia, in which the government is purchasing lands for national forests, have been tentatively allotted $21,037.

PRIVATE GEORGE TIGHE

FORMER EMPLOYE OF THE SUN WRITES INTERESTING LETTER FROM MEXICAN BORDER

A member of The Sun staff has received the following letter from Private George Tighe, formerly of The Sun's stereotyping department and now doing duty for Uncle Sam on the Mexican border.

I suppose you will think that I have forgotten you, but you have another thing coming. I can prove a good all-around fellow. I did not draw any pay for five weeks and as stamps were scarce I only wrote to the ones who were dear to me at home.

El Paso is a wonderful city. About all of the buildings are modern and built on plans similar to The Sun building. The Hotel Paso Del Norte is the handsomest hotel I have ever seen. It is eight stories in height. The ground floor, which includes the lobby and dining room, is beautifully and artistically decorated with palms and Mexican ornaments. I think it has as much floor space as any two department stores in Lowell.

The city of El Paso is under martial law. The police of the city are 90 per cent. soldiers from the regular army. The camp where we were for seven weeks is called Camp Cotton and it is the worst camp grounds that possibly could have been picked. The sand, the night we arrived, was ankle deep and we had a hard time for at least two weeks putting the grounds into shape for travel. Sandstorms in good old New England. We have one most every day and when it comes you have to be a regular expert to duck it as it gets in your mouth, ears and eyes. Sometimes you are unable to see five feet in front of you. The dust is called alkali and it certainly does burn. It burns your lips and nostrils, sometimes causing sores to break out on the lips.

We are now on a 15 day tour of guard duty and maneuvers at Canutillo, New Mexico, and it is certainly some relief to get away from the sand storms at Camp Cotton. We have grass here and the air is clearer and purer. The air is cool, too, for this is the rainy season.

Our tents are pitched in the Central square. It is the school for towns within a radius of 10 miles. The school includes the primary, grammar and high school grades. After our tour of guard duty we are supposed to have ten days rifle practice and believe me, we need it, for some of the fellows here never handled a rifle before their enlistment.

The boys are all well here and are anxious for a settlement between the United States and Mexico. Most all of them are longing for the folks back home and the girls they left behind them.

Gerald Bean, our company clerk, was acting first sergeant of the recruits in a very busy one. After Private Bean they used to call him three times in the morning at home before he got up and he can't understand why they don't do it here.

A minstrel show and dance will be held by Co. M. Minstrels next week, in the school hall, and the residents of this place are sure to enjoy it as enthusiastically as ever. Give my regards to all the boys on the Sun.

Yours respectfully,

DEATH OF PRINCE

Disappearance of Body of Kaiser's Nephew Explained

PARIS, Aug. 18.—The circumstances of the death and mysterious disappearance of the body of Prince Maximilian of Hesse whose relatives invoked the aid of the pope in an effort to obtain this information, are disclosed by a writer in the Petit Parisien. The writer asserts that the prince was shot during an engagement between a Saxony detachment and an English patrol near Godesberg, in northern France, early in the war.

The prince was found by Trappist monks and taken to their monastery where he died soon after. The monks were ordered to evacuate the monastery and Father Bernard, visiting the cloister on the following day, found that the body of the prince was missing.

Later the prince's family appealed to the pope to obtain information as to the disposition of the prince's body but without success. The Petit Parisien writer says the body reposes in a humble cemetery in Hazebruck, that it was kept two days in a house there, was once interned but exhumed at night and finally buried in a coffin costing thirty francs, which were advanced by a poor man out of pity.

Prince Maximilian was twenty years of age and the son of the youngest sister of Emperor William of Germany. Previously it has been stated that he was fatally wounded in an engagement near Mont Descats on Oct. 12, 1914, and that the body was buried in a monastery.

etc., and also information about his parents. He must state the extent of his education, whether or not he used intoxicating liquors, if he has ever been convicted of any crime and answer many other questions about his character. With this application it is necessary to furnish two testimonials signed by citizens of the United States, preferably clergymen, school teachers or public officers, who believe that the applicant would "make a good and faithful soldier."

Next comes the physical examination which is a very lengthy one. After answering several questions the examining physician states whether or not the applicant fulfills the legal requirements for enlistment.

It is necessary to then fill out an enlistment paper to be forwarded to the adjutant general's office in which the applicant swears to serve in the National Guard of the United States of the state of Massachusetts, for the period of three years in the service and three years in the reserve under the conditions prescribed by law, unless sooner discharged by proper authority. Three forms requiring more information are also filled out before the applicant is sent away.

MODERN ALMSHOUSE

BILLERICA'S OVERSEERS OF THE POOR OBJECT TO STATE BOARD OF CHARITY'S REPORT

According to the overseers of the poor of the town of Billerica, the state board of charity was asked in its special report issued Monday of this week concerning the conditions of almshouses in cities and towns in this section, including Lowell, Billerica, Chelmsford, Tewksbury and Westford. The report commenting upon the institutions of all the other towns except Billerica called attention to the modern steam heating systems, electrical lighting fixtures and other improvements while the Billerica poor farm was classed as being heated by "stoves" and lighted by "kerosene oil."

The Billerica officials correct the state board of charity and state that the town has a home for its paupers as up-to-date as any in this section. Over a year ago the sum of $4000 was expended on repairs and improvements to comply with suggestions made by the state board of health. Now the town has a separate dining room, several modern bath rooms, electric lights in all rooms and a newly installed heating system. These improvements, claim the overseers, provide every comfort for the inmates.

WANT TO BE ARMY OFFICERS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Applications for appointment as second lieutenant in the army have flooded the office of the adjutant general since it became known that the service virtually is without officers of that rank and must obtain them promptly from civil life. The war department announced today that applications received after Aug. 15 could not be acted upon in time to permit the applicants to be examined on August 21, the date of the first examination. Another examination will be held early in 1917.

More than 900 applicants will be examined Aug. 21. Even if all are successful there will remain 600 vacancies, and on July 1, 1917, when the second increment of army increase authorized by congress is added, there will be another big list of places to be filled.

WARNING FOR ENGLAND

Manchester Guardian Says Maxwell's Severity Has Caused Unfriendly Feeling

LONDON, Aug. 18.—Various influences, particularly England's policy toward Ireland, are arousing suspicion and resentment in the United States, says the Manchester Guardian, in a long editorial article today. These facts cannot be ignored, it asserts, for the active cooperation of the United States will be necessary if a lasting peace is to be brought about by a league of the "liberal pacific powers of the world."

The Guardian suggests that the British orders in council, the censorship, the blacklist and interference with neutral mails have tended in some degree to alienate American sympathy from Great Britain and her allies, and continues:

"But these matters are comparatively unimportant in days such as these and if there were nothing else to be considered we should be justified in concluding that there was no reason to anticipate any serious change in Anglo-American relations."

Referring to American expressions of opinion in regard to the resolutions adopted at the economic conference of the entente allies at Paris at which consideration was given to various proposals, especially regarding tariff changes, which provoked wide comment in America, the Guardian says:

"There is no doubt that the suspicion here implied is injuriously affecting the allied cause in America, and these circumstances should not be overlooked in our calculations for the future. But above all other influences working against us in America is the memory of the Irish revolt."

When the cabinet resisted the first impulse towards clemency the Guardian continues, it forgot the immense and troublesome fact of Irish America, and for that lapse of statesmanship there would seem to be no hope of a speedy remedy. It adds:

"The reign of Sir John Maxwell at Dublin has made an end, perhaps for years to come, of all hope of reconciliation that large element in the United States which, until with the home rule act, we began to redeem the past in Ireland, had been by this addition and practice irreconcilable. One of our greatest assets when the war broke out was the cordial neutrality of the American people, made possible by the restraint and somewhat reluctant sympathy of American Irish. That we sacrificed and the loss is likely to color the politics and behavior of the United States towards us until the end of the war, or until such time as a complete change can be brought about in our Irish policy."

"We cannot ignore this fact much as we may regret it, for the active cooperation of the United States is an essential condition to any such league of the liberal pacific powers of the world as alone can give us an assurance of stable peace."

INCREASING DEMAND

FOR SAVINGS BANK LIFE INSURANCE POLICIES

The increasing demand from all parts of the state for savings bank life insurance policies has made necessary the appointment by the state medical director of medical examiners in all Massachusetts towns having 4000 or more inhabitants.

The premium income of the savings insurance banks for July, 1916, shows an increase of 37 per cent over the income for July, 1915. There are now upwards of 14,000 policyholders with insurance in force approaching $6,000,000. As a result of the extremely low cost of this insurance, for the month of July nearly 50 per cent of the business issued by the banks came by direct application to the banks or one of their agencies.

The commonwealth will give full information to anyone interested; address Savings Bank Life Insurance, State House, Boston, Massachusetts.

GERMAN SUBMARINE
ARRIVES AT BREMEN

Private Despatch Says Deutschland Reached Germany From United States Yesterday

GENEVA, Aug. 18, via Paris, 5:40 p. m.—A private telegram received today from Berlin by the Neue Zürcher Zeitung says that the German submarine Deutschland arrived safely yesterday at Bremen from the United States.

PASSED DEUTSCHLAND, AUG. 10. NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Aug. 18.—The captain of a Norwegian steamer which arrived in Hampton Roads for bunker coal stated today he passed the submarine Deutschland Aug. 10, then eight days out of the Virginia capes. The Deutschland was under full sail. The captain said he took her for a sailing ship in distress. He received a reply which said it was the Deutschland.

The Deutschland had collapsible masts fore and aft when she lay at her wharf in Baltimore.

PRESIDENT SENDS VETO MESSAGE TO THE HOUSE

Refused to Approve Army Appropriation Bill Because of Exemptions From Discipline for Retired Officers Forced Into it by House Conferees Led by Rep. Hay—New Bill May Delay Adjournment

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—President Wilson today vetoed the army appropriation bill because of exemptions from discipline for retired officers forced into it by the house conferees led by Representative Hay, over the opposition of the war department. A new bill will be necessary and may delay adjournment of congress. Representative Hay of the house military committee said he would re-introduce the bill again.

There have been broad intimations that the revision which proposed to remove retired officers from the jurisdiction of court martial was in the interest of a certain retired officer who was waiting for a time when he would be immune from discipline to make a public attack on the army. The officer, whose name was mentioned in connection with the report, was in service, very active in legislative affairs. He was very close to congressmen framing army bills and unscrupulous in his methods.

The president's veto of the bill is one of the developments of years of contest between the army and Chairman Hay.

The downfall of the continental army scheme and substitution of the National Guard reorganization against the recommendation of army officers is attributed to him. Only the force of President Wilson's interference put the regular army increase in the new reorganization bill through the house in the face of Hay's opposition. Recently President Wilson appointed Hay to a judgeship on the court of claims and he now is serving his last term in congress.

Pres. Wilson's Message

The war department contends that many features of the army bill were written into it in the conference and never were debated in house and senate.

President Wilson's veto message follows:

"To the house of representatives: I have carefully considered the bill entitled: 'An act making appropriations for the support of the army for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1917,' and now take the liberty of returning it with my objections to its approval. The bill constitutes an essential part of the legislation providing for the military establishment of the country and wisely and generously provides for the reorganization of the agencies of our national defense, and it is with genuine reluctance that I delay its becoming law by suggesting the elimination of one of the provisions which has been embodied in the very necessary and important revision of the articles of war which has been added to it.

"The existing articles of war are undoubtedly antiquated. They have not undergone comprehensive revision for more than one hundred years. They do not always furnish the means of meeting promptly and directly the needs of discipline under modern conditions and many contingencies now frequently arise in the government of the military forces which were not contemplated when the present code was formulated. The relations of the government of the United States has greatly broadened with the hundred years. We now have insular possessions and national interests far away from our continental shores. Both the practice of arms and the theory of discipline have undergone many modern changes and a manifest need for such a revision of these articles as is here presented has long existed. I, therefore, the more keenly regret to find in the proposed revision of the articles of war a provision to which I cannot give my approval.

"The original act establishing the retired list of the army referred to the personnel therein included as only partially retired and provided that a retired officer should be entitled to wear the uniform of his grade, should be borne on the army register and should be subject to the rules and articles of war and to trial by general court martial for any breach of these articles.

"By the act of July 24, 1878, officers of the army on the retired list were specifically declared to constitute a part of the regular army, a provision which is found repealed in subsequent acts affecting the organization of the army; and other statutes enacted during this period made retired officers of the army available for certain classes of active duty, in time of peace with their consent and in time of war without their consent.

By the recently enacted national defense act, the authority of the president over retired officers has been further extended so as to make them subject to his call in time of war for any kind of duty without any restriction whatever. Courts and attorneys general have in a long line of decisions held that officers of the army on the retired list hold public office.

"It thus appears that both the legislative and judicial branches have drawn a sharp distinction in status between retired officers, who are regarded and governed at all times as an effective reserve of skilled and experienced officers and a potential source of military strength and mere pensioners, from whom no further military service is expected. Officers on the retired list of the army are officers of the army, members of the military establishment distinguished by their long service, and, as such, examples of discipline to the officers and men in the active army. Moreover, they wear the uniform of the army, they receive pay and service hold them out as persons especially qualified in military matters to represent the spirit of the military establishment and they are subject to active duty in time of national emergency by the mere order of the commander-in-chief.

"They are, therefore, members of the army, officers of the United States.

BILL IS HELD UP

Morse Holds Up First Bill Presented on Bridge Job

The first bill for the construction of the new Pawtucket bridge, presented by the National Engineering Co., has been held up by Commissioner Morse.

The bill, which is for materials, furnished and work done in connection with the Pawtucket bridge contract, amounts to $245,571.35.

According to the contract the bill was payable Aug. 15. It was presented by the company on Aug. 8, in time for the monthly draft and approved by City Engineer Kearney, but held up by Commissioner Morse.

Morse is out-of-town today. It was possible to learn his reasons for holding up the bill.

In special session this afternoon the city council approved the bill.

THE FINANCIAL REPORT

CITY AUDITOR ISSUES REPORT FOR JULY—EXPERT ACCOUNTANT REPORT

The monthly financial report for July has just been issued by City Auditor Paige and the pamphlet contains interesting data concerning the financial condition of the city as well as a report of the annual examination of the books and audit of the accounts of the city of Lowell, for the year ending Dec. 31, 1915, as required by the provisions of section 35, of the city charter, adopted Nov. 7, 1911, made by Everett Z. Tarbox, public accountant and auditor.

According to the auditor's report the limit of indebtedness is as follows: City, $2,507,704.90; water, $1,463,450; revenue tax loan, $500,000. The total gross debt Jan. 1, 1916, was $4,571,154.90. Deduct by legislation: Water, $1,463,450; special legislation, $335,000; revenue tax loan $500,000; total, $3,358,450. The city as relates to limit of indebtedness is $1,212,704.90. The limit of the municipal debt for 1916 was $2,238,285.54, while the city debt as relates to limit was $1,672,704.90. The distance from the debt line on January 1 was $553,584.64, while the distance from the debt limit on June 30 was $502,869.67.

The assets of the city July 31: $2,507,327.65, while the liabilities were the same. The amounts unexpended for each department, July 31 were as follows: Public safety, $230,457.90; finance, $31,402.54; streets and highways, $135,175.07; fire and water, $160,155.35; property and licenses, $52,466.88; parks, $3,219.35; schools, $157,595.65; library, $24,871.34.

Mr. Tarbox's report is in part as follows: The financial records of every city department were examined, verified and compared with the books of the city auditor, and a proof obtained of the

RAILROAD PRESIDENTS STAND BY MANAGERS

Pres. Wilson Refuses to Take "No" for Answer—To Call Again Tomorrow—Men Accept Plan

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Thirty-one railroad presidents today told President Wilson they stood by the decision of their managers' committee that an 8-hour day was impracticable.

President Wilson refused to take "no" for an answer to his proposal that they accept the 8-hour day and asked them to return to the White House tomorrow with their managers for another conference.

Just after the railroad presidents left the White House it became known unofficially that the employees had voted to accept President Wilson's proposition and that some of the leaders had gone to the White House to tell him so.

The railroad presidents agreed to return to the White House tomorrow.

The attitude of the railroad presidents seemed to indicate little chance for the plan proposed by the president being accepted. Several declared the principle of arbitration in industrial disputes was at stake and must be maintained even at the cost of a strike. President Wilson pointed out the disaster which would attend a nationwide strike, but the officials only answered that they were ready to arbitrate the questions at issue. During the conference with President Wilson details were not taken up. President Holden of the Burlington, as spokesman, pointed out that only the committee of managers was authorized to reach a definite decision as it represented all the roads. The railroad presidents were with President Wilson less than an hour.

Whether President Wilson will continue to insist on his plan or suggest another to both sides was not made clear. Administration officials insist he will continue negotiations until some settlement is reached.

Men closely associated with the railroad officials said that the managers were willing to accept any kind of arbitration but that there was no chance for an 8-hour day without investigation.

Vote of Employees

The vote of the employees on President Wilson's plan was delivered to him personally by the chiefs of the brotherhoods. A. B. Garretson, their spokesman, said it would be given out by the president and added that although the employees had received no invitation to return to the White House, they would "larry" here to await a possible summons.

The four brotherhood leaders were in conference with the president thirty minutes and said no modification of the plan had been presented to them as a result of President Wilson's conference with the railroad presidents.

entire cash receipts and disbursements of the city treasurer's office, during the fiscal year of 1915, as recorded on his cash books.

The system of accounting now in force was installed by me during the year 1913, and, as required by section 3 of the financial ordinances of the city, is based upon the classified schedule of receipts and payments of the municipal division of the United States census bureau, for cities of the same comparative size as Lowell.

The results of its utilization are that the numerous financial transactions of every city department are gathered and classified, in such a manner that the city auditor's books will at all times reflect the true financial condition of the city, and automatically check the cash receipts and payments of the city treasurer.

It is gratifying to me to say that the modern accounting system is being successfully administered by the financial officers and departmental clerks, and many details which at first were overlooked or misunderstood, are gradually being improved.

Accurate information relative to the city financial condition is now readily obtainable by city officials and by the general public.

During the progress of the audit a revision of the financial ordinance of the city was made, as the ordinances previously in force were at variance with the present financial statutes and with the present business and accounting methods of the city.

At the hearing on the Pawtucket bridge before Col. Craigbill of the United States army held in Boston this morning, the Locks & Canals company, through its representatives, Arthur D. Safford and Frank E. Dunbar, withdrew all objections to the grades of the proposed bridge. Mayor O'Donnell and City Engineer Kearney spoke in favor of the present plans of the bridge, while W. T. S. Bartlett and Joseph Wilson appeared as remonstrants.

The hearing was held for the purpose of determining whether or not the river would be navigable after the new bridge is erected, and in the course of the hearing it was brought out that the new bridge would not affect in any way the flow of the water.

3500 BEGGING

Terrible Hardships are Suffered by Armenian Refugees in Arabia

BOSTON, Aug. 18.—A statement describing the hardships suffered by Armenian refugees in northern Arabia was made public today by Rev. Dr. James L. Hutton, chairman of the American committee for Armenian and Syrian relief. Dr. Hutton said the statement came from an eye witness, not an American, and could be depended upon as unexaggerated.

The eye witness said that of 3500 deported Armenians at Meskene, a part had found employment, but the rest were begging.

"In every tent," he said, "there are sick and dying. Many hundreds of the sick are left without any tent and covering. I saw desperate ones throw themselves in grave trenches and beg the grave diggers to bury them. The government does not give the hungry any bread."

He described one party of 600 which had been sent from place to place without food. As nourishment, he said, they cooked grass, pressed the water out and made balls which they dried in the sun. In Hama he founded the deported Armenians subsisting on locusts and dead dogs. Similar conditions were found in other places.

"In each deportation," the statement continues, "at least five to six perish through the wild mishandling of the accompanying gendarmes."

"In Sepka a preacher from Alntab told me that parents have often killed their children. At the government investigation it was shown that some people had eaten their children."

HIS LEG FRACTURED

FRED ST. JEAN WAS RUN OVER BY AUTOMOBILE TRUCK IN NORTH BILLERICA

Fred St. Jean, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank St. Jean of High street, North Billerica, is confined to his home suffering from a fractured leg sustained when he was run over by an automobile truck belonging to Kenneth McKinnon, a local grocer, and driven by James Allen.

The accident occurred yesterday directly in front of the St. Jean house in the presence of the boy's mother. It is claimed that Fred was playing with a stick and when the machine approached he attempted to put the stick under the wheel and slipped. He fell in the path of the machine and one of the wheels passed over his leg, causing a fracture. The lad was carried into the house and treated by Dr. Neil K. Forhan.

"COLD STORAGE"

Order Says Every Egg in Cold Storage Must Be Stamped After September First

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 18.—An order issued by the state commissioner of food and markets is worrying commission men here today. It requires that every egg in cold storage must be stamped "Cold Storage" after Sept. 1. Commission houses estimated that there are 72,000,000 eggs in storage in Buffalo and 650,000,000 in the state, and the removal of each egg from its original container for stamping at the cold storage warehouses would require the services of a small army of men, it was said.

COLLIE DOG SAVES GIRL

DROGGED HER FROM RAILS JUST AS AN ELECTRIC CAR WAS RUNNING HER DOWN

BOSTON, Aug. 18.—"Buster," a handsome collie, well known to the friends of his mistress, Miss Lillian Matter of Rosemount road, North Weymouth, as a dog of unusual sagacity, was the hero of Quincy Point yesterday. Especially was he a hero in the eyes of Miss Jennie Cockburn, mother of 8-year-old Jennie Cockburn, whom he saved from death yesterday afternoon when he pulled her away from a track just as an electric car was running her down.

Miss Matter is a friend of the Cockburns and a frequent visitor to their home, 66 Washington street. "Buster" often accompanies her and is well acquainted with little Jennie. Yesterday, when Jennie saw Miss Matters and "Buster" approaching the Cockburn house, she ran across the road to meet them, stepping directly into the path of a trolley car. When she saw her danger, Jennie became confused and stood still on the track.

As the white-faced motorman started to apply the brakes, "Buster" darted forward and seized the little girl by her dress, pulling her to safety in the nick of time.

WEST MEDFORD GIRL DROWNS

BOSTON, Aug. 18.—Doris F. Lee, 20-year-old daughter of Mrs. Sarah Lee of 133 Jerome street, West Medford, was drowned yesterday afternoon in the swimming pool at Myrtle lake, Winchester. Officer James B. Ellis of the Metropolitan park police, who swam to her assistance, fully clothed, succeeded in bringing Miss Lee ashore within a few minutes, but efforts to resuscitate her failed.

Miss Lee jumped into the pond, which is eight feet deep, evidently thinking that the water was shallow.

automobile, operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor and operating an automobile without a license were preferred against him. When arraigned in court this morning he entered a plea of guilty to the charge of drunkenness and not guilty to the three other complaints. He was not ready for trial and by arrangement the hearing was continued until next Tuesday.

The automobile which it is alleged that Conlon stole belongs to Dr. Forster H. Smith, who has an office in the Sun building. The doctor left this machine in front of Barlow's market in Merrimack square last night while he went to his office and upon returning an hour later he found that the automobile was missing. He reported the matter to the officer in the square and then went to the police station and word was telephoned throughout the city and also to the police of adjacent cities.

QUITE BADLY INJURED

CARR AND DELANO GOT THEIR BEMPS WHEN CAR STRUCK A POLE

Richard Carr, who resides in Dutton street, and Fred Delano, of 1 Rundlett court, off West Sixth street, are in a rather serious condition at St. John's hospital as a result of an automobile accident in which they figured last night.

Shortly after 9 o'clock last night Carr and Delano were traveling through First street in the direction of Lawrence and when at a point near Llewellyn street crashed into a pole, shattering it and smashing the front of the automobile.

Following the accident the victims succeeded in walking back to as far as the corner of Bridge and First streets from which point they were taken to the hospital. At the hospital it was found that Carr was the more seriously injured, having a fractured upper jaw involving the lower end of his lip, a cut extending two-thirds across his cheek, his teeth smashed out and his tongue split. Delano sustained a cut on the left side of his head behind the ear and extending along his neck, a distance of five inches.

Andrew T. Rodger of 68 Florence avenue identified the car in which the two were riding as his machine, which he claims had been left in Paige st. about 5 o'clock. Sgt. Bart Ryan of the police department visited the hospital to question the victims relative to their use of the machine, but found Carr unable to talk and Delano with little to say.

The front of Rodger's car is badly damaged, with one of the axles buckled up beneath the machine. The auto was headed towards Lawrence at the time the mishap happened.

JEW'S WANT RETRACTION
BOSTON, Aug. 18.—The city planning board has been asked to retract its recent statement regarding Jews of East Boston, and to make amends, by a committee, consisting of Bernard N. Vernon, William Weinberger, Samuel Davidson, Abraham Weinberger and Dr. Rubin Guralnick.

The board in a recent report criticized conditions in East Boston, and said the Jews exert "a somewhat depressive" effect on that section. The statement issued by the committee yesterday declared the board's report to be a slur and a slander. Building operations in East Boston were reviewed in the statement. The assertion was made that the Jews are proprietors of some of the largest and best business houses of the section, and the city was held responsible for the dirty streets.

Mayor Curley several days ago issued a statement rebuking the planning board for its report.

EVERY DAY ETIQUETTE

THE HAIR IN SUMMER

One should remember in going away for the summer outing that there are no available shampooers hiding in the woods that surround the wild mountain camp, and none inhabit the haystacks of the remote country farm.

So, it behooves the woman who is spending her summer vacation in a remote place to master the art of shampooing her own hair. And an art it is, although it can be mastered easily with a little patience. In the first place, you must have all the required ingredients for a good shampoo at hand. These include a suitable soap or shampoo mixture, plenty of hot and cold water, a spray for rinsing, and plenty of suitable towels for drying. To begin with, if you have dry hair, do not shampoo the hair until you have time to perform the rite properly. A hasty shampoo is not only untidy, but it is dangerous. Select a clear, sunny day. Have at hand plenty of old, soft towels, and if possible the means of warming them.

Start by washing your brushes and combs. Soft, soapy water, not hot, but tepid, with perhaps a dash of ammonia or borax will be needed for this. Do not allow the brushes to soak long. Rub them together briskly in about two or three waters containing soap.

Now, if your hair is dry, use only shampoo mixture, as follows: Mix one raw egg with a pint of lukewarm water and one ounce of rosemary spirit. When thoroughly beaten and mixed, rub this into the scalp, a good way being to have some one pour it slowly from a small-lipped pitcher while you rub it thoroughly into the scalp, as if you wanted to reach the very roots. Then rinse the hair in many clear waters, all lukewarm. But do not rub the hair with towels. As soon as the bulk of the moisture has been absorbed by the towels, sit yourself in the sun, gently shaking the hair, thus drying by ventilation and the sun's rays.

Grasse, France, is the World's Garden of Flowers. In normal times hundreds of visitors drive daily from the Riviera towns to this little medieval city above the Mediterranean—the center of the perfumery industry of the world.

Paris Perfumers come to Grasse for their raw materials, because it is here the flowers are grown from which the essential oils are distilled.

Perin, the master perfumer, also procures his raw materials from Grasse to make Orys Perfume, and other Perin Preparations the French way; but being made in America, the enormous duty charged on luxuries is eliminated.

Hence, with exactly the same raw material from exactly the same source, and exactly the same skilled labor, Perin Preparations are the same as French Preparations.

The ingredients in Perin Preparations are the best and purest the world affords. The formulae have been culled from the recipes of the renowned beauties of Europe, as compounded by famous chemists, and the packages are beautiful and unique.

Leading department stores from coast to coast feature Perin Preparations because of their popularity and merit.

Therefore you may satisfy your expression of good taste—for Perin Preparations are now sold exclusively in this city by us.

Try Orys Perfume—most distinctive and fascinating. An elusive fragrance that permeates and lingers. The favorite of Society Leaders.

A cordial invitation is extended to you to visit our Perfumery Section at your early convenience.

TEUTONS DRIVEN BACK

Russians Again Push Forward—
French Drive East of Meuse—
—Other War News

The Russians, temporarily held up in their Galician drive by heavy counterattacks, have again begun to move forward. Petrograd today announces that the Teutonic armies on this front have failed in their attempt to throw back Gen. Brusilov's armies, sustaining heavy losses in the effort and that the Russians are again advancing at several points. In the war news from France, the Verdun region again commands attention. The French have not been notably active there for the past few days, but last night they resumed their offensive east of the Meuse, and, according to this afternoon's Paris bulletin, succeeded in driving the Germans from a part of the village of Fleury, which has long been sharply contested ground. An advance by the French was also scored in the Thiaumont sector, nearby. After a brief period of delay the Germans have made their expected counter move in the Maurepas sector on the Somme front, where the French on Wednesday night reported substantial gains. Paris declares several attempts at counter attacks were made on the new French positions here but that all failed under the French fire. The Russians are pushing their campaign in the Carpathians and at one point have crossed the Galician border line into Hungary. Petrograd today announced the approach of Russian troops to the summits of the range near Kármensk, which is about three miles inside Hungarian territory. Berlin reports intense activity along the Somme, admitting a British gain of ground in a narrow front near Martenpuch and an indeterminate result in fighting with the French near Hardecourt. Otherwise the Anglo-French forces were turned back with heavy losses, the official statement declares. It records the repulse of an attack by the French on a wide front west of the Meuse in the Verdun region except at Fleury village where the fighting was reported still in progress.

HEAVY ATTACKS MADE BY THE FRENCH ON VERDUN FRONT

PARIS, Aug. 18, noon.—Heavy attacks were made by the French last night on the Verdun front. After violent fighting at Fleury, east of the Meuse they expelled the German from part of the town which had been captured, says the official statement of today. Several German counter attacks on the Somme front southeast of Maurepas were repulsed.

The French also made considerable progress in the region of Thiaumont, in the Verdun sector. Fifty Germans were captured there.

The statement follows: "North of the Somme several attempted counter attacks by the enemy against our new positions southeast of Maurepas failed under our fire. We took some prisoners."

"South of the Somme we recovered four machine guns in trenches taken by us south of Helleu."

"On the right bank of the Meuse, (Verdun front) an attack by our troops enabled us, after a violent combat, to drive out the Germans from a portion of the village of Fleury which they were occupying."

GERMAN ARTILLERY VERY ACTIVE LAST NIGHT ALONG SOMME

LONDON, Aug. 18.—German artillery became more active last night along the Somme front. A small British gain is reported in the official announcement of today which follows: "Last night the enemy's artillery generally showed increased activity. Northwest of Bazentin-le-Petit by a small local enterprise we further extended our gains in the enemy's lines. German trenches in this area were found to be greatly damaged and full of the enemy's dead."

A further hostile attack from Martenpuch last night was repulsed as completely as were his former attempts yesterday.

BOEHLING AND MILLER OF SENATORS TRADED TO INDIANS FOR SMITH AND LEONARD

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Manager Griffith of the local American league club today announced that he had traded Pitcher Boehling and Outfielder Miller to the Cleveland club for Outfielder Smith and Infielder Leonard.

PRESIDENT VETOS BILL

examples of discipline, and have in their keeping the good name and the good spirit of the entire military establishment before the world. Occupying such a relation, their subjection to the rules and articles of war and to trial by general court martial have always been regarded as necessary, in order that the retired list might not become a source of tendencies which would weaken the discipline of the active land forces and impair that control over those forces which the constitution vests in the president.

The purchase of the articles of war in times of peace is to bring about a uniformity in the application of military discipline which will make the entire organization coherent and effective and to engender a spirit of cooperation and proper subordination to authority which will in time of war instantly make the entire army a unit in its purpose of self-sacrifice and devotion to duty in the national defense. These purposes cannot be accomplished if the retired officers, still a part of the military establishment, still relied upon to perform important duties, are excluded, upon retirement, from the wholesome and unifying effect of this subjection to a common discipline. I am persuaded that officers upon the retired list would themselves regard as an invidious and unpalatable discrimination which in effect excluded them from full membership in the profession to which they have devoted their lives, and of which, by the laws of their country, they are still members. So long as congress sees it to make the retired personnel a part of the army of the United States, the constitutionality of the proposed exemption of such personnel from all liability under the articles of war is a matter of serious doubt, leaving the president, as it does, without any means sanctioned by statute of exercising over the personnel thus exempted the power of command vested in him by the constitution.

"Convinced as I am of the unwisdom of this provision and of its baneful effect upon the discipline of the army; doubting, as I do, the power of congress wholly to exempt retired officers from the control of the president, while declaring them to be a part of the regular army of the United States, I am constrained to return this bill without my approval."

Representative Hay announced that he would seek to re-pass the bill in the house under a special rule next Tuesday.

The articles of war will not be permitted to get through in this bill again," he declared emphatically after a conference with several members of the military committee.

The danger of complication and delay lies in the fact that Chairman Chamberlain of the senate military committee said that if the house passed the bill without revision of the articles of war, the senate probably would re-invent them as they were passed by the senate.

"The veto," said Senator Chamberlain, "reopens the whole bill and there may be some senators who will want to renew their fight for amendments stricken out in conference."

NEW BRITISH LOAN

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Syndicate participations in the new $250,000,000 British loan, were so large, according to the statements of managers, as to ensure a closing of the subscription books today. The books for public subscription will not be opened until next week, but it is stated that applications in large numbers already have been received.

TWO WERE INJURED

While on the running board of a Lowell bound car, which left the Lawrence transfer station at 7:50 Wednesday night, Jeremiah Twomey of Avon street, Lawrence and Joseph Powers, a former employee of the street railway, are reported to have been injured quite badly, when an obstruction used to close the road for repairs struck them a glancing blow. Powers was hurled from the running board and complained of a severe shaking up and injuries to his leg. Twomey suffered painful injuries to his legs also. Both received treatment after the accident. It is claimed that the obstruction was too close to the car line and as the car sped by Twomey and Powers were struck.

LOAN OF $130,000,000

BOND ISSUED TO MEET GOVERNMENT EXPENSES DUE TO MEXICAN SITUATION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—A recommendation of the majority members of the senate finance committee for a $130,000,000 bond issue to meet extraordinary government expenses due to the Mexican situation was before congress today. This amount, it is explained, would meet Mexican expenditures only until the end of the calendar year and, should border conditions continue as at present after Dec. 31 next, a further appropriation of $86,000,000 will be required.

The committee recommendation, which is concurred in by the treasury department was laid before the senate last night in its report on the $205,000,000 revenue bill. It was accompanied by a treasury department statement which estimated disbursements for the fiscal year 1917 at $1,126,245,000 and receipts at $762,000,000.

INFANT PLAGUE

Little Change in the Epidemic—Experts to Fight Disease

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The health department reported only a slight change in the epidemic of infantile paralysis today. New cases during the last 24 hours numbered 156 and deaths 32 as against 121 cases and 33 deaths yesterday.

NEW CASES IN MASSACHUSETTS
BOSTON, Aug. 18.—Six new cases of infantile paralysis, a marked decrease as compared with other days this week were reported to the state department of health today. The total for the month is 126, or 16 more than in July. Brookline reported its first case today.

CARTRIDGE SHOP STRIKE

UNSKILLED WORKERS MET ON COMMON—SEVERAL SPEAKERS
HEARD—SUPT. CAHILL OFFER

Between 400 and 500 men employed on the night shift at the United States Cartridge shops who are out on strike, held a meeting on the South common this forenoon and voted to form into an organization, which will be known as the Federal Union of the United States Cartridge Co.'s Workers, the organization to embrace all unskilled jobs in the factory.

The meeting was held around the bandstand and the first speaker was Mrs. William E. Sproule, who urged her listeners to form into an organization. She told of the benefits to be derived from such an organization. Later at her request the organization was formed, and John Regan was elected president. Other speakers were representatives of Local 128, Machinists' union and Local 1745, Fixers' union, both organizations being from the same shop. These men informed the strikers that their organizers were at work under interfering with the present trouble.

John Conley of Boston, business agent for the I. A. of M., also addressed the gathering. Prior to the meeting the writer was informed by the strike committee that on the evening of Aug. 16 the strike committee conferred with Supt. Cahill and the committee agreed to await the decision of the superintendent as to the amount of increase to be granted, which will be given out as soon as convenient or before Aug. 25. The proposition was later submitted to the strikers and rejected.

A meeting of the strikers was held last evening at 36 Central street and the gathering was addressed by Mr. and Mrs. William E. Sproule, Joseph Murphy, Augustus Lescaudreau and others. The meeting was presided over by Richard L. Farrell.

FIRE IN CHARLES STREET
An alarm from box 227 at 2:32 o'clock this morning summoned a portion of the fire department to a blaze in a closet in a house at 84 Charles street. The fire had its inception in a pile of wood and rubbish and was evidently caused by hot ashes in a fire much damage was done, but the interior of the closet was burned and the contents destroyed.

ITINERANT VENDOR PROBLEM
The influx of itinerant vendors in this city of late has been a source of annoyance to people in the residential districts. Although the police have been notified of the operations of these people they have found it difficult to secure tangible evidence of wrong doing against them.

Some of the persons who do a house to house canvass are in a legitimate business, while others work on the susceptibility of old of them she purchases articles, which are not to be paid for until delivered, but subsequently the purchaser realizes that she has signed a paper which she had not read and finds that although the man who sold the articles told her it would cost her

SAY BREMEN CAPTURED

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The passengers who arrived yesterday from London on the Cunarder Albatross were confident that they had seen the new German commercial submarine Bremen in tow of two British warships off Deal on Sunday night, Aug. 6, when their vessel was at anchor in the Downs.

The officers and crew of the Albatross admitted they had seen what they believed to be a captured submarine passing through the Downs, but they could not say that it was the Bremen. Just after dark on Sunday night two cruisers approached the Albatross coming from the channel and towing a long covered boat resembling a submarine that was slung on chains made fast on board the two warships.

There were three destroyers astern and two ahead and all seven vessels were steaming about 10 knots through the Downs toward Sheerness, where there is a naval dock.

One of the officers of the Albatross said the new German submarines were apparently being manned by green hands, as several of them had been caught recently by the British patrol boats.

ELKS GAMBOLED ON GREEN

Lowell Elks and Their Friends
Made Merry in Tyngsboro—
Outing Best Ever

"Everybody happy." These few words expressed the sentiments of all those who attended the annual outing of the Lowell Elks and their friends, held on the beautiful and spacious grounds of the Martin Luther Tyngsboro yesterday. The affair was the biggest and best in the history of the order, and that is saying a great deal when all previous outings are taken into consideration. There was not a hitch in the entire program, and each and every event

WOMAN WEAK, DIZZY, NERVOUS

Health Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Jamaica, N. Y.—"I suffered greatly with my head and with backache, was weak, dizzy, nervous, with hot flashes and felt very miserable, as I was irregular for two years. One day when I was feeling unusually bad my sister-in-law came in and said, 'I wish you would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.' So I can take it and I am now in good health and am cured. I took the Compound three times a day after meals, on retiring at night. I always keep a bottle in the house."—Mrs. L. N. PINKHAM, 35 Globe Ave., Jamaica, N. Y.

Women who recover their health naturally tell others what helped them. Write and allow their names and photographs to be published with testimonials. Many more tell their friends. If you need a medicine for Women's Ailments, try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Thousands of women have benefited by its use, and it is probably exactly what you need.

went off like clockwork. The features were varied, and young and old mingled in all the events and thoroughly enjoyed the well diversified program. The weather, handed out by "Brother Bill," was all that could be desired, and all members joined in extending a rising vote of thanks to the dispenser of atmospheric conditions.

As stated in yesterday's Sun the affair opened with a street parade, in which appeared over 50 well filled automobiles and about 200 marchers. The parade was under the direction of Commissioner James E. Donnelly, and like all others managed by the capable marshal, was a success in every particular. After marching through Middle, Shattuck, Merrimack and Central streets, the parade headed for the depot, where after a concert had been played by the Elks' band under the direction of James Buckley, all those who walked hopped aboard a special train and rode to the grounds. Those who were fortunate enough to occupy machines—and the writer, owing to the kindness of John J. Healey, was one of the lucky ones—remained in their seats and were driven to the grounds.

The train made good time, and when it had arrived the festivities were immediately opened. During the remainder of the afternoon, many who had not participated in the parade arrived at the grounds, and the attendance was the largest on record.

The opening feature was an excellent luncheon served by Caterer Harvey and this proved one of the most enjoyable "Numbers" on the program. Late in the afternoon a very appetizing dinner was served. In the meantime the sports were run off. The first event was a ball game between teams representing the married men and the single men. The game was one replete with fast and exciting playing and after eight innings was called with the married men on the long end of a 6 to 4 score. Harry Pitts and Bob Ganley, the battery men for the winners were in fine form, and were mainly responsible for the defeat of the bachelors. In the lineup were many whose names have frequently appeared in box scores, and for an outing game it was a corker.

The lineup of the teams were: Married Men: Ganley, Pitts, McNally, lb. Cox, 2b, Dowd, 3b, Boland, ss, Kenyon, cf, Lyons, of, Mahan, if. Single Men: Tyrrell, p, Gookin, c, Sullivan, 1b, Helmer, 2b, Kelley, ss, Manning, 3b, Hart, rf, Robitaille, cf, McLaughlin, if. Harry Goldman acted as umpire and his work was very satisfactory.

The winning team was presented a beautiful cup, the gift of Fred Pilling. The pillow fight, always a feature at Elks' outings, was better than ever this year. Many there who went up, only to come down on the first wallop, and the way that John McMahon dropped his opponents would make Jess Willard look like an amateur. In all he K O'd just nine, and for pulling off this little stunt he received a silver smoking set, donated by John Pilling.

The seventy five yard race was won by L. Heathcock, and he received an umbrella. For second place Bob McCarty got a box of cigars. The winners in the U and I race were T. Clark and James Finnegan and each received merchandise from Macartney's. The fat men's race for Elks only, was won by A. V. Slicer, and he was presented a set of Elks cuff links. John Donohoe took second, after running off a tie, and he was given an Elks card case. J. J. Mullins and James Finnegan captured the three legged race and they received merchandise from Macartney's and McQuade. Arthur Lynch took first in the sack race, and William Healey was second. They received an umbrella and pipe respectively. M. H. Haggerty proved to be the class in the hop step and jump, and just for that he will sport a classy shirt, donated by John J. Healey, Mitchell, the tailor.

During the entire afternoon there was a musical program that made a great hit with all. The selections by the Elks' band were of a high order, sentimental and classical. All numbers were given in a manner that reflected great credit on the musicians. The bandmen were not the only pebbles on the grounds, however, in the musical line, for the Honey Boy four, composed of Leonard Brown, James Lyons, Joseph Perry and Edward Handley, were there. The way these talented artists handed out selections stamped them as entertainers of the first class. They sang, and then sang and finally sang some more, but there was not a one in the crowd who did not enjoy every selection. Their program was varied and unique, and every number was given in true professional style.

When the last number was given, the applause was tumultuous and performers, bandmen and singers alike, were given a great hand. It was now about time for the special train, and all prepared for the return to the city. When the special arrived, all wended their way to the crossing, elated with the success of the outing and warmly congratulating all those who had in any way contributed to its success. While the names of the committee were published in yesterday's Sun, the work of every member was so efficient that all are entitled to a special mention. The general committee was composed of the following: James H. Walker, chairman; Arthur T. Cull, secretary; Joseph Haggerty, treasurer; William Scott, John J. Lee, Fred H. Bourke, James E. Donnelly, Edwin W. Kilpatrick, Eugene V. Brown, John J. Healey, Joseph F. Burns, Max L. Katze, John J. Dawson, William H. Mahan, Edward J. Handley, Samuel Scott, Harry Pitts, Christopher J. Hagan, Thomas H. Kelley, Elias J. McQuade, Charles F. Gilmore.

The parade, with all marchers carrying the national colors, was a pretty spectacle.

The Elks' big three, Jim Walker, Joe Haggerty and Arthur Cull, were responsible in a great measure for the success of the affair.

Ed Handley, manager of the Honey Boy four, has a large arm from the numerous shakes, accompanying the congratulations for the fine work of his quartet.

Among those who were there were Mayor O'Donnell, Rep. Murphy, former Representative Cull, County Commissioner Barlow, Commissioners Donnelly and Putnam, Sheriff Fairbairn, Rep. Crosby, Wm. C. Purcell and former District Attorney Higgins. All were there with the glad hand.

"Hello, Bill!" What does this mean? Where did it originate? These were some of the questions asked yesterday. We are indebted to John H. Cull, former secretary of the Elks for the following "info" on the subject: "William B. Meyers, of Philadelphia lodge, grand exalted ruler in the early thirties, was the man responsible for the popular greeting which is now the watchword in Elksdom throughout the world. He had been elected to the high office at the Salt Lake City convention, and the following year he went to Atlantic City. He was a big, good natured, jovial fellow and the crowd that assembled at the station to greet him joined in shouting: 'Hello, Bill!' when he arrived. Since that time 'Hello Bill' is always heard at meetings and other affairs of the Elks."

BRYAN OUR ONLY ORATOR
Prof. Hannay at New England Conference Complains of Neglect of Study of Public Speaking

BOSTON, Aug. 18.—William Jennings Bryan is the only orator in the United States worthy of mention, according to Prof. M. C. Hannay of the English department at Acadia university, Nova Scotia. In his comments on oral speaking at the closing session of the New England public speaking conference yesterday afternoon at Emerson hall, Harvard.

Prof. Smith said that in England there never has been a period without one or more orators of note. He said the study of oral English has been neglected in the United States. American colleges, he feels, give too much attention to scientific subjects.

Prof. John Corsa of Amherst presided. The discussion was led by Prof. H. R. Shepherd of the University of Cincinnati. Prof. Bromley Smith of Bucknell university presented a resolution favoring a three-hour-a-week minimum period in colleges for the study of "public speech," as he would have public speaking and its various phases designated.

FACES NEW CHARGE
"Birth Control" Case Witness Accused by Police of Obstructing Public Justice

BOSTON, Aug. 18.—Frederick Hill, 19, of Charlestown, now in Charles street jail in lieu of $500 bail as a witness in the Van Kleef-Alison "birth control" case, will be brought into municipal court today to face a charge of obstructing public justice.

Hill is married and lives at 35 Medford street, Charlestown. At St. Paul, Minn., the police say, there are warrants charging him with conspiracy and with assault and battery on his wife.

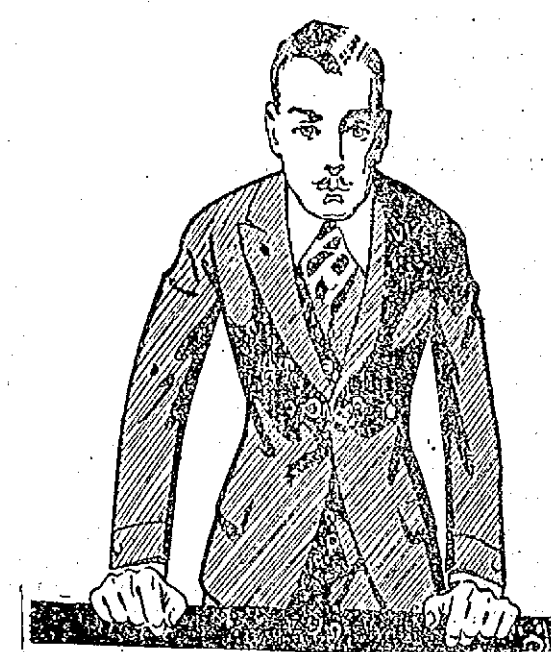

It is alleged that Hill was seen talking to some of the factory girls to whom Alison is alleged to have given "birth control" literature and the police claim that he was trying to influence them not to testify against the "birth control" advocate.

THE FRENCH MAID SAYS

"Before cleaning the refrigerator remove all articles of food to a table or a shelf with a easy access. Have ready in the stationary tub or an ordinary wash tub plenty of hot water, softened with a dash of household ammonia and good white soap which is free from odor. Plunge into this all the shelves and movable fixtures, including the tray on which the ice rests. The ice should be wrapped in newspaper and set in the coldest spot available. When the fixtures are washed set them in the sun to air and sweeten."

"With the same suds wash the walls of the refrigerator, rinsing thoroughly the last two times with cold water. Bring in the fixtures, dip them in cold water, fit them into the refrigerator, remove the paper from the ice, return it to the proper compartment, lay a newspaper over it and shut the door. Then as quickly as possible return all food to its proper place and shut up the refrigerator."

VAGARIES OF CANDIDATE HUGHES

It seems that Candidate Hughes is not making much of an impression in the west in his hot air campaign except with the women. His criticism of President Wilson's administration is so weak that it falls flat. When he says that Wilson might have prevented the Lusitania disaster, and might have restored order in Mexico by a different policy, he is simply dealing in undemonstrated theories, a species of campaign material of which Hughes seems to have an unlimited supply. He criticizes Wilson's methods, but he does not say what he would have done under similar circumstances. This is the worst kind of evasion; it is political claptrap of the cheapest sort. He already sees it does not advance his cause. He finds the people cannot be fooled as easily as he had supposed; and even the republican leaders have objected to his output as vague and indefinite. It amounts to indiscriminate assaults unsupported by facts or by the logic of events.

Already the country is surprised that a man who held an honored position in one of the highest tribunals in the world, could so readily divest himself of his judicial dignity and descend to the status of a hack politician misrepresenting men and measures, distorting the truth and sacrificing every principle of dignity, decency and honor to catch votes.

But Mr. Hughes has discovered that his attempts to discredit the Wilson administration have been an utter failure. Hence he now turns to deal with the future, the need of placing the nation's affairs in "responsible hands" after the war. That is a pertinent subject to discuss; and every reasonable citizen of this republic should see that the men who steered the ship of state safely through all the perils of war and at the same time brought about the highest degree of prosperity reached in the nation's history, can safely be entrusted with responsibility for the next four years. While Candidate Hughes is thus pleading for a return to republican control and claiming that the democrats cannot be trusted with the new situation that will arise, yet he fails to tell the public that the republican party has fought the shipping bill and every other democratic measure planned to meet the future contingencies of which Mr. Hughes speaks.

The Wilson administration has had to deal with problems vastly greater than those which will come after the war and these were all handled in the most able and capable manner. No president since Lincoln has made such a splendid record nor has any shown such eminent ability as did President Wilson. It is not strange that for this reason such eminent editorial authorities as the Springfield Republican comes out boldly in support of President Wilson. In a strong editorial the Springfield paper says:

"Mr. Wilson, in the face of difficulties and criticism such as have confronted no president since Lincoln, has accomplished much. To declare his foreign policy futile is idle. The conclusive answer is contained in the bitter protests of the radical faction in Germany that the German submarines have been caught 'in a net of notes.' The outstanding fact is that Mr. Wilson, without bringing the United States into war, has forced a recognition of neutral rights.

"With relation to Mexico, Mr. Wilson has grasped the underlying principle that we shall not have a permanently peaceful neighbor to the south of us until the most patent wrongs under which the masses of the Mexican people have suffered are righted through their own efforts. The recognition of this principle in the long run means the minimum of evil to this country from the Mexican problem. It is to Mr. Wilson's everlasting credit that in spite of difficulties, discouragements, and possibly of incidental mistakes, he has not wavered in his endeavor to apply this principle to the changing circumstances of the times."

The republicans hunger for office, Wall street is offering odds on Hughes because if he were elected Wall street would again become a dominating factor in shaping the policies of our government. Moreover, the erstwhile trusts and combines that ruled congress under republican sanction are longing for a return to the policies under which they were the beneficiaries of special privilege and a tariff that was simply prohibitive. If, as republicans allege, such a protective tariff is essential to our prosperity, how is it that under a democratic tariff we now enjoy prosperity rarely if ever surpassed in this country?

Verily the empty platitudes by which Hughes is endeavoring to fool the people are too transparent, too obviously absurd to fool anybody.

PRODUCTION OF AMMUNITION

England has made the announcement that she is now in a position to supply practically all the munitions she needs from her own factories, a fact which shows that she has made great progress in the direction of home production of all the necessities of war. At the opening of the war, she was found unprepared, her store of ammunition was adequate only for ordinary needs and therefore, wholly deficient for the demands of war. She began to build factories, and although there was at first some friction with the labor unions, the men soon became reconciled to the new conditions, many of them preferring to work quietly in the ammunition factories at good pay rather than go to meet almost certain death at the front. As the product of the English factories increased, the volume of foreign orders diminished and as a result, when present contracts shall have been finished, there will be no more from England.

What is true of England in this respect is largely true also of France and Russia so that henceforth, there will be fewer orders for ammunition from these countries as well as from England.

The New York Evening Post noting the prospect of a coming slump, says:

"From all over the globe our steel trade is receiving orders for ship-plates for merchant vessels, while it is widely reported that no war-material orders are being given to run after January 1 next. This may be in part due to the increased production of British and Russian factories; none the less, it is possible to deduce some belief in a lightning of Europe's horizon. So far as our own war-order companies are concerned, it was announced recently that the Du Pont powder-mills had cut off one shift of men, and the Westinghouse Air Brake company is dismantling some of the buildings it used for the making of munitions. In addition, there are known to be numerous cases where plans are already under way to convert munition war-order plants into factories for the production of tin-plate, dye-stuffs, and other material needed in the peaceful arts."

The New York Evening Sun said recently, quoting the representative of a foreign government here:

"A maximum of production of shells, etc., in your country will be reached in October. There may be some falling off in the business previous to that time, but in the late fall and winter the decline will be general."

These conditions will have a bearing on the local ammunition factories in reducing the orders and especially in easing up upon the rapidly with which all the remaining orders shall be filled. Should there be any large reduction in the number of people employed by the United States Cartridge company, no doubt the local mills will be able to take care of a considerable number of them; but the mills will not pay nearly so high a rate of wages as is being paid in the ammunition factories. There are at present over 8,000 men and women employed in the United States Cartridge shops and should even one half of them be thrown out of employment, the result would be a serious blow not only to the employees affected but to the city at large. It is just as well that all concerned should realize that the foreign demand for ammunition will not continue much longer and that anything done now to obstruct the business may drive some of the remaining orders elsewhere and bring about a general entertainment of local production sooner than would otherwise be the case.

DOLLAR DAY SALE

Judging from the large crowds of shoppers that appeared upon the streets Wednesday and the general satisfaction expressed by the merchants, the Dollar Day sale must have been quite successful. The result is but another proof that whenever the merchants have real bargains to offer and make this fact known through the newspapers, those who are always looking for opportunities to save a dollar—and who is not?—will get down town to secure what they want at reduced prices. Thus it is, that advertising of the right kind pays. The Lowell merchants realize this; and the people are becoming more and more accustomed to watch the advertisements in this daily paper so as to avail of every opportunity of buying their household needs at the lowest prices.

The Dollar Day sale also shows how local business may be stimulated by combined efforts on the part of the merchants. It demonstrates too, that even in the hottest part of the summer when most people are supposed to be on vacation, there are always enough shoppers in town to crowd the stores where bargains are offered and to take due advantage of all these sales, whether the purchase limit be one, five or ten dollars.

THE TAX RATE

The fact that the tax rate has not reached a higher figure than $21.20 in view of all our large municipal expenditures, is perhaps a cause for felicitation. It is 40 cents higher than that of last year and 70 cents lower than the rate in 1914. But for the elimination of valuable property seized on Kirk street for a high school site and other property seized in connection with the Dummer street extension, the rate might have been kept down to or even below last year's figures. We surmise that the average tax-payer will feel that all things considered, the rate is as low as could have been expected.

SEEN AND HEARD

Some of us think that if we had Rockefeller's money we would do a lot of good, but how much good have we done with the little that we have?

One trouble with arguing with a man to convince him that he is wrong is that it takes a long time, and even if you spend a long time trying to convince him, you generally can't do it.

Even at some of the fashionable hotels where "an excellent cuisine" is advertised, the cooking's bum.

Why not make a collection of a million dollars in Mexican currency? It wouldn't cost you much.

A fat soldier doesn't get any bigger pay than a thin one, even though he may be twice as likely to get hit.

Every successful minister knows that sermons in the summer should be shorter than sermons in the winter time.

Even when you see a girl cutting from the paper an article headed, "How to Entertain Fifty Guests," it may be a long time before she gets married.

True enough, money isn't the only thing in the world, but money will buy a lot of other things.

Listen, Suffragettes

The following likely story is told on the master of a western city, unnamed by Harper's Monthly:

A small boy, who afterward proved to be a nephew of one of the mayor's stenographers, was wandering about the city hall when one of the officials there happened upon him.

"Well, sonny," inquired the magistrality, "for whom are you looking?"

"For my Aunt Kate."

"Can't you find her?"

"I can't seem to."

"And don't you know where she is?"

"Not exactly. She's in here, somewhere, though, and I know that the mayor works in her office."

Fearful Food Shortage

A Boston man tells of an old-time deacon in Massachusetts known for the lengthy blessing which at his table was the unending prelude to every meal. His hired man, Tom Morgan, an unconverted and impatient townsman, was about to make his first journey in that capacity through the place. The townspeople had arranged that from an arch of flowers under which he was to pass a floral crown should hang, surmounted by the words: "He well deserves it."

But when the wind blew away the crown and when the pompous mayor passed under the arch, to the great joy of those who voted against him only a rope with a noose at the end of it dangled there with "He well deserves it" standing out in bold relief above it.

Grayfish

The dogfish—so they tell us—is a most repulsive beast.

But the grayfish—so they tell us—is all right.

The record of the dogfish is very black indeed.

But the record of the grayfish is all white.

The dogfish is a grisly shark, and quite unfit to eat.

You wouldn't eat a dogfish if you could.

The creature's name alone would take away your appetite.

But the grayfish is quite succulent and good.

So when you order dinner get some grayfish from the man.

Remember now, that grayfish is the name!

And maybe you'll enjoy it, if perchance you do not know.

That the dogfish and the grayfish are the same.

ALTITUDES IN MAINE

The highest point in the state of Maine thus far recorded is Katahdin mountain, in Piscataquis county, 5,273 feet above main sea level. This is one of many elevations noted in Bulletin 633, entitled "Spirit Leveling in Maine, 1899 to 1915, inclusive," just issued by the United States Geological Survey, department of the Interior.

The bulletin is to a considerable extent a dictionary of altitudes, as it contains a list of about 750 elevations determined by the Geological Survey in connection with its topographic mapping of the state. In addition there is a list of about 150 altitudes of well-known summits, water-surface elevations of prominent lakes, and other useful elevations. The state contributed financially to the work.

The new bulletin is one of a series of similar reports being published by the Geological Survey and should be of considerable advantage to surveyors and engineers who have occasion to use benchmark elevations in laying out railroads or other public works where accuracy of elevation is necessary.

The report is a guide to the bench marks that have been set by the Survey engineers, for while the numbers stamped on the bench marks represent the elevations to the nearest foot as determined by the levelman, the bulletin gives the exact elevations to thousandths of a foot of the points thus marked.

A copy of Bulletin 633 may be obtained free on application to the director of the Geological Survey, Washington, D. C.

FASTNESS OF GRAND CANYON

Few persons can realize on a first view of the Grand Canyon that it is more than a mile deep and from 8 to 10 miles wide. The cliffs descending to its depths form a succession of huge steps, each about 500 feet high, with steep rocky slopes between. The cliffs are the edges of hard beds of limestone or sandstone; the intervening slopes mark the outcrops of softer beds. This series of beds is more than 3500 feet thick, and the beds lie nearly horizontal. Far down in the canyon is a broad shelf caused by the hard sandstone at the base of this series, deep-trenched by a narrow inner canyon, but a thousand feet or more into the underlying "granite." The rocks vary in color from white and buff to pale green. They present a variety of picturesqueness, mostly on a titanic scale, fashioned mainly by erosion by running water, the agent which has excavated the canyon. (U. S. Geological Survey)

DEUTSCHLAND SIGHTED

U-Boat in Mid-Ocean—Escaped Ramming by Submerging, Say Men on Sachem

BOSTON, Aug. 18.—The first information, however authentic it may prove to be, that the German merchant submarine Deutschland had safely passed the cordon of British and French war vessels awaiting her outside the Virginia capes, came to Boston yesterday, borne by American fishermen returning on the Warren line steamship Sachem, from Liverpool on this port.

These witnesses declared in full sincerity, that the German freighter in mid-ocean escaped a ramming by submerging, and later forced the Sachem to flee in fear of an underwater attack.

The British officers of the Sachem, in less convincing terms, corroborated the Americans' statement.

Roy Snow of Orleans, a returning fisherman, claims the distinction of being the first to sight the submarine.

This was about 10 o'clock on the morning of Aug. 12.

Saw Only Conning Tower

Officers of the Sachem to whom he spoke only saw the conning tower and periscope and decided that they had sighted a wreck. Their opinion was changed, however, when, as the Sachem made for the point of submergence, the strange craft came to the surface and went ahead at full speed, heading on a northeasterly course in the general direction of Iceland, and bound apparently for the north passage around Scotland and thence into the North sea.

The Sachem, partly out of curiosity and partly out of love of the chase, followed the submarine for several miles, until the latter again disappeared under water. Then caution possessed the ship's officers and, taking no chances on the discharge of a torpedo, though they had been led to believe that the Deutschland was unarmed, they abandoned the pursuit, turned about and headed with all due circumspection for American shores.

George J. Watts ship's painter of 53 Chambers street, Boston, and Wallace D. Potter, an electrician, of 28 Arlington street, Lynn, were out Snow's version of the encounter.

Capt. Ritchie refused to discuss the matter, but referred it to Second Officer Hughes, who was on duty when the submarine was sighted. Neither officer would affirm the statements of the fishermen that the Sachem made for the point of submergence, the strange craft came to the surface and went ahead at full speed, heading on a northeasterly course in the general direction of Iceland, and bound apparently for the north passage around Scotland and thence into the North sea.

Ordered Not to Talk

This is the first authentic news of the Deutschland received since she sailed from Baltimore and eluded the blockade fleet.

None of the officers on the Sachem would speak for publication, as they are under orders of the British admiralty not to give out information relative to the movement of vessels. Horsemen, said, though, that before arriving in port they were free in discussing the incident, and all were positive that it was the Deutschland they had passed. As the submarine left Baltimore on Aug. 1, she would be about in mid-ocean on Saturday, and by this time probably in Germany. She could make the passage in about 16 days, it was said.

The excitement on the Sachem started after she had discharged her cargo of horses at the French port of LaPallice and was making for Liverpool with the remainder of her cargo and to load for this port. As soon as she left the harbor two German submarines lying in wait, gave chase.

Orders for full speed ahead were given. Every one not engaged in firing the engines was commanded to keep on deck and be prepared to enter the lifeboats the minute the enemy fired a torpedo. The freighter tore through the water at the rate of 44 knots an hour. Stokers were worked to the limit and they heaved coal as they never did before. Some fell by their fire hoses, exhausted, and American fishermen volunteered to take their places at the fire hoses. Among those aiding in this work were James Curley of 500 South street, Quincy; Jere Casey of 12 Fitchburg street, Somerville, and Harvey Clark of Chicago.

The chase was kept up for eight weary hours, with the submarines gaining slowly but surely on the British vessel. By order of Capt. Ritchie and was finally answered by a fleet of 14 British patrol boats. They opened fire on the German submarines and forced them to submerge. Still, the Sachem was chased almost to the mouth of the Mersey.

Discussing the tax rate of $21.20 for 1916 as against $20.80 for 1915, as announced in the Sun yesterday, Jeremiah O'Sullivan, a member of the board of assessors, said:

"We have suffered from the taking out of the taxable list the property seized by the city for an addition to the high school, the seizure of the area for the Dummer street extension, and in a reduction of valuation made by the assessors in various sections, the deterioration of certain neighborhoods necessitating a lower valuation. In no part of the city have we increased valuations, except on the land in Central street between Merrimack Square and Tower's Corner, and in view of many changes being made there, or about to be made there, for the betterment of the section, it was deemed wise to increase the land valuation."

"We have had to contend with the loss of considerable personal property, through the removal of the Bigelow Carpet Co. and the Merrimack Print Works, and the changing of the American Woolen Co. into a Massachusetts corporation, thereby taking away a direct tax on its stock.

"On the other hand, we have had the benefit of the growth of new industries for the manufacture of munitions, such as the International Steel Ordnance Co. in Middlesex street and the U. S. Cartridge Co. in Lawrence street, and also the coming of a new corporation here, the Bay State Cotton Corporation. The past year has also been a fairly good one in the building line."

BRICK AND TILE PRODUCTS

The value of the brick and tile products of the United States in 1915, according to the United States Geological Survey, Department of the Interior, was $125,794,844. Three varieties of brick and tile and miscellaneous products increased in value in 1915 compared with 1914. Front brick, valued at $9,535,636, increased $245,213, or nearly 3 per cent. over 1914; draft tile, valued at $8,879,264, increased $37,225, or 4 per cent.; fire brick valued at $18,529,931, increased $2,412,354, or nearly 15 per cent.; and miscellaneous products valued at $3,716,944, increased $551,130, or 17 per cent. There was a decrease of the total product of about 3 per cent.

The product that showed the greatest decline was sewer pipe. Common brick and terra cotta also showed decrease compared with 1914. The decrease in these industries occurred during the early months of the year, but the conditions improved during the last three or four months of the year, the year closing with bright prospects for 1916.

Subject of the Bulletin

Issued by National Geographic Society

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 18.—Molfetta, the seaport of Italy which was shelled by Austrian torpedo boats recently, is the subject of the following war geography bulletin issued by the National Geographic Society from its Washington headquarters.

"The shipbuilding yards of Molfetta were probably the chief targets of the Austrian navy during the recent bombardment. While the town presents a striking appearance from the sea, its walls, studded with towers, are of a former age when such defenses were effective against pillaging expeditions of freebooters and adventuring pirates."

"With a population of more than 40,000, Molfetta is one of the thriving commercial centers of the southeastern coast of Italy. In addition to its trade as a seaport the city has numerous manufacturing establishments, producing flour, soap, wines, bricks and vermilion. Sixteen miles of rail to the southeast connects the town of Bari (the Bari of the ancients)."

"Evidence of a neolithic settlement have been found in the vicinity of Molfetta, but the origin of the present town is uncertain. It began to figure in European history during the sixteenth century when Charles V bestowed it upon the duke of Terracina. No sooner had it passed into the possession of its new master than the illustrious marshal of France, Odet de Foix Lautrec, descended upon it and sacked it in the prosecution of his campaign against the kingdom of Naples. Lautrec, though a gallant soldier, owed his advancement in the service of the French king, Francis I, not to his prowess in arms but to the fact that the charms of his sister, Françoise de Chateaubriant, had fascinated his sovereign. He died in Italy a victim of the plague which decimated his army shortly after the sacking of Molfetta."

"Molfetta was one of the cities of southern Italy in which serious disturbances occurred in May 1898, when there was a sudden increase in the price of bread."

"The most picturesque building in the medieval section of Molfetta is the cathedral, which like the cathedral in

If Too Fat Get

More Fresh Air

BE MODERATE IN YOUR DIET AND REDUCE YOUR WEIGHT. TAKE OIL OF KOREIN.

Lack of fresh air is said to weaken the oxygen-carrying power of the blood, the liver becomes sluggish, fat accumulates and the action of many of the vital organs is hindered thereby. The heart action becomes weak, work is an effort and the beauty of the figure is destroyed.

Fat put on by indoor life is unhealthy and if nature is hindered in throwing it off a serious case of obesity may result.

When you feel that you are getting too stout, take the matter in hand at once. Don't wait until your figure has become a joke and your health ruined through carrying around a burden of unsightly and unhealthy fat.

Spend as much time as you possibly can in the open air; breathe deeply, and get from A. W. Dows & Co., or any druggist, a box of oil of korein capsules; take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Weigh yourself every few days and keep up the treatment until you are down to normal. Oil of korein is absolutely harmless, is pleasant to take, helps the digestion and even a few days' treatment has been reported to show a noticeable reduction in weight.

loss of considerable personal property, through the removal of the Bigelow Carpet Co. and the Merrimack Print Works, and the changing of the American Woolen Co. into a Massachusetts corporation, thereby taking away a direct tax on its stock.

"On the other hand, we have had the benefit of the growth of new industries for the manufacture of munitions, such as the International Steel Ordnance Co. in Middlesex street and the U. S. Cartridge Co. in Lawrence street, and also the coming of a new corporation here, the Bay State Cotton Corporation. The past year has also been a fairly good one in the building line."

BRICK AND TILE PRODUCTS

The value of the brick and tile products of the United States in 1915, according to the United States Geological Survey, Department of the Interior, was $125,794,844. Three varieties of brick and tile and miscellaneous products increased in value in 1915 compared with 1914. Front brick, valued at $9,535,636, increased $245,213, or nearly 3 per cent. over 1914; draft tile, valued at $8,879,264, increased $37,225, or 4 per cent.; fire brick valued at $18,529,931, increased $2,412,354, or nearly 15 per cent.; and miscellaneous products valued at $3,716,944, increased $551,130, or 17 per cent. There was a decrease of the total product of about 3 per cent.

The product that showed the greatest decline was sewer pipe. Common brick and terra cotta also showed decrease compared with 1914. The decrease in these industries occurred during the early months of the year, but the conditions improved during the last three or four months of the year, the year closing with bright prospects for 1916.

Subject of the Bulletin

Issued by National Geographic Society

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 18.—Molfetta, the seaport of Italy which was shelled by Austrian torpedo boats recently, is the subject of the following war geography bulletin issued by the National Geographic Society from its Washington headquarters.

"The shipbuilding yards of Molfetta were probably the chief targets of the Austrian navy during the recent bombardment. While the town presents a striking appearance from the sea, its walls, studded with towers, are of a former age when such defenses were effective against pillaging expeditions of freebooters and adventuring pirates."

"With a population of more than 40,000, Molfetta is one of the thriving commercial centers of the southeastern coast of Italy. In addition to its trade as a seaport the city has numerous manufacturing establishments, producing flour, soap, wines, bricks and vermilion. Sixteen miles of rail to the southeast connects the town of Bari (the Bari of the ancients)."

"Evidence of a neolithic settlement have been found in the vicinity of Molfetta, but the origin of the present town is uncertain. It began to figure in European history during the sixteenth century when Charles V bestowed it upon the duke of Terracina. No sooner had it passed into the possession of its new master than the illustrious marshal of France, Odet de Foix Lautrec, descended upon it and sacked it in the prosecution of his campaign against the kingdom of Naples. Lautrec, though a gallant soldier, owed his advancement in the service of the French king, Francis I, not to his prowess in arms but to the fact that the charms of his sister, Françoise de Chateaubriant, had fascinated his sovereign. He died in Italy a victim of the plague which decimated his army shortly after the sacking of Molfetta."

"Molfetta was one of the cities of southern Italy in which serious disturbances occurred in May 1898, when there was a sudden increase in the price of bread."

"The most picturesque building in the medieval section of Molfetta is the cathedral, which like the cathedral in the neighboring Bari has the unusual feature of two towers, both attached to the east end. These companies are of plain masonry, the stories being suggested by blind arches and windows.

"The Austrian province of Herzegovina is directly across the Adriatic from Molfetta, a distance of 125 miles.

LABOR DAY PARADE

PLANS FOR BIG TURNOUT PRACTICALLY COMPLETED AT MEETING HELD LAST EVENING

Plans for the monster Labor day parade were practically completed at a meeting of the Trades & Labor council held last evening at 32 Middle street. The meeting was attended by representatives of the various local labor organizations and a feature of the evening was the drawing of lots for places in the parade.

According to a statement issued last evening this year's parade will be one of the best in the history of the Trades & Labor council and it is expected that over 5000 people will participate. The route of the parade as decided last evening will be as follows: Thorndike street to Middlesex, to Gorham, to Davis Square, to Central street, to Merrimack, to Bridge, to Sixth, counter-march to Merrimack to Moody, to Cabot, to Merrimack, to be reviewed at city hall by the city government and at Monument square by the chief marshal and staff and dismissed.

The first division will form in Summer street, right facing Thorndike; the second in Thorndike street, right facing Summer; the third in Highland street, right facing Thorndike and the fourth in South street, right facing Highland.

After the drawing of lots at the meeting the roster of the parade was announced as follows:

First division—Trades and Labor Council

Second division—(Building Trades) Building laborers: Local 19, Carpenters: Local 1468, Carpenters: Local 1610, Carpenters: Local 72, Teamsters: Local 87, Teamsters: Local 55, Teamsters: Electrical Workers: Painters and Lathers.

Third division—(Miscellaneous) Local 230, Street Railway Men; Bartenders: Stationary Firemen: Leather workers: Lowell Textile Council, including the woolen and cotton spinners and weavers, loomfixers and other branches: Local 551, Street Railway Men; Brewery Bottlers: Favers and Ramblers: Barbers and Steam and Operating Engineers.

Fourth division—(Metal Trades) Billerica car-shop employees, including the Blacksmiths, Machinists and Helpers, Boiler-makers and others; Moulders and U. S. Cartridge shop employees.

The following additional aides were announced at last night's meeting of the council: Alex. Shapiro, Local 57, Blacksmiths; Andrew Shannon, Building Laborers; Thomas J. Dannelly, Local 55, Teamsters; Arthur Holstein, Local 1468, Carpenters; E. P. Taylor, Local 49, Carpenters; Henry Bradley, Local 745, Specialists; Omar Laha, Local 1610, Carpenters; Henry Beaupre, Local, 87, Teamsters.

The following credentials of delegates to the council were received: Local 39, Painters, William Hollingsworth, Thomas Morrison, F. Sawyer, Felix Guyette, William Reid, John Murphy and William Couture. Local 959, Woolen Spinners, George McBride, John Glavin, John Maguire, and Fred Taylor.

Local 11609, Leather Workers, Joseph Donnelly, Joseph Iselle, Jr., John Moran, Benjamin Williston, Joseph Reid, William Brennan and Charles Shanley.

Dye Grinders and Polishers, David Manning, Thomas Crowe, Patrick Burns, John Carthy and Herbert Kenyon.

ride him unmercifully and he'd take their criticism much more heartily than he would return to his face and he'd go back to the coach line full of pep. In the old days the ball players made their headquarters at the Old Washington Tavern, when Bill Hawes and Arthur Whitney had it and subsequently when the late Martin Courtney conducted the old hostelry. Quarter of a century ago or thereabouts, bicycles were just coming into popularity and Guinness became the proud owner of one of them. Every evening, after supper, provided the team had won, and Guinness had played a fairly good game, he'd mount his wheel at the Tavern and ride down Central to Merrimack to Dutton, to Thorndike and back via Middlesex street, while the admiring fans on the sidewalks would greet him with: "Hello, Guinness, old Sport." "You're all right, Guinness," and similar expressions of good will which tickled him mightily.

But if it happened that the team had lost that afternoon, or the Guinness had pulled a bone during its progress, no amount of coaxing could get him away from the Tavern veranda for that evening.

Some few years after Guinness had left the diamond, in the days when the order of Hogs was in the height of their prosperity, a convention of the Horgan lodges of Lowell, Boston and Brookton was held in Boston and a party of Lowell members headed by William W. Murphy, the well known Middlesex street business man went to the Hub to attend the convention. At the conclusion of the business meeting it was suggested that the Lowell crowd go down to the North End and look up old Gunny. They found him large as life and wearing a broad smile surveying delectable products of the vineyards of sunny Italy, with a background of innumerable lattice-work encased bottles, made nowhere but in Italy. Guinness was delighted to meet his old friend, and after showing them where they could procure the finest of spaghetti prepared by a chef who had done service for a near relative of old Garibaldi, he took them through the North End and showed them the sights. When last heard of, Guinness was still at the North End, and doing well.

THE OLD TIMER.

USING UP VITALITY

The struggle for success uses up vitality in America at a greater rate than any other thing. Fighting to keep away from the poor-house we shorten the distance to the grave.

Especially in middle age, at forty or thereabouts, do we become impressed with the necessity of laying up a competence and with that feeling in time comes worry, nervous breakdown, neurasthenia. The entire system feels the result of the nervous strain. The tediousness resents things that it accepted before, the heart palpitates on slight exertion, the muscles of the back ache after a day's work. Your blood is thinner and not so bright a red.

When these things occur, whether you are fourteen or forty, you need a tonic. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills suit most people's need because they are non-alcoholic and they really build up the blood and strengthen the nerves. They are useful for growing children and for men and women whose nervous energy has been overtaxed.

Your druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or they will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes $2.50 by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Write today for free booklet on the blood and nerves.

CATHOLIC WEEK PLANS

THREE CARDINALS AND 20,000 DELEGATES TO ATTEND CONVENTION IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Meetings preliminary to the "Catholic week" of conventions of Catholic societies began here today with the opening session of the Catholic Press association and a preparatory meeting of the committee on social propaganda of the German Catholic central Verein.

The joint convention of the Catholic societies will begin Sunday with a pontifical mass in St. Patrick's cathedral with Cardinal Farley as celebrant, and Bishop Hickey of Rochester, N. Y., as preacher. Three special thrones have been erected in the chancel for the use of Cardinals Gibbons and O'Connell and Archbishop Bonanza.

Eight thousand persons are expected to attend the mass and 20,000 delegates will take part in the convention. The sessions will continue until Thursday, Aug. 24.

STRIKE AT NEW HAVEN

UNION LEADERS CLAIM 2500 MEN OUT—OFFICIALS SAY ONLY ONE HUNDRED

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 18.—When the regular day forces went into the Winchester Repeating Firearms company's plant this morning there was no evidence of accessions to the ranks of those machinists and metal workers who struck yesterday for the 8-hour day. The big plant has had the three-shift system for months. When the whistles blew and the gates swung inward hundreds of men and women who are through for the day and other hundreds reporting for work, pass through. Usually those passing out this morning were the 8-hour men. The agitation led many to linger about the gates today. The groups were of good size, but observers could not identify strikers from the workers. The organizers of the Machinists' International union last night claimed to have taken out 2500 men. The company said that not over 100 men had left their work. Police officers who were liberally stationed throughout the Winchester section agreed in their statements that the strikers numbered only a few score.

THE NEW HORSEMOBILE

THIS MOXIE COMPANY ALWAYS HAS SOMETHING NEW—HORSEMOBILE THE CLEVEREST "AD" YET

The Moxie company, manufacturers of a temperance beverage with a world-wide reputation, is noted for its advertisements, including the "Boy on the Box" which is considered one of the finest "ads" ever displayed, but when it comes to a unique form of advertising the Horse-mobile has got them all going.

The Horse-mobile made its appearance in Lowell yesterday. By special request and because of the fact that this city is the birthplace of Moxie the company sacrificed many important engagements so that everybody might witness the famous Horse-mobile.

It toured the streets of the city in the morning and was also in the Elks parade in the afternoon.

The Horse-mobile is the invention of Mr. F. M. Archer of the Moxie company and is a well proportioned white horse minus his head, extremities from his knees down. This horse is placed on the chassis of an automobile and the jockey astride the horse has his feet in what appear to be stirrups, but which are really the clutches to the automobile while the other stirrup is for the brake. The steering is done by a small wheel which protrudes from the side of the horse's neck.

J. D. Doucette, formerly of this city, is the jockey-chauffeur, and he wears a Moxie uniform made up of advertising patches that attract attention.

The imitation horse is so real to life that many persons until they get a very close look at the invention are of the opinion that the horse is riding on the automobile.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

The ways of the Paris Apaches are strikingly shown in "A Child of the Paris Streets," the big Triangle picture, which will be produced twice today and tomorrow at the B. F. Keith theatre. Something new in portraiture is offered in this picture, something entirely new in the history of the film. The story is told in the life of a young girl, Marie, who is a Parisian, a part played well by Jennie Lee, pleads with a judge in a French court to spare her son, who is a vagabond before him, but he is deaf to her entreaties and sends the woman youth to the galleys. The old woman vows revenge. And her opportunity comes soon after, when she learns that her son has been taken to the little girl, taken from a home of refinement, is reared as an Apache. She is taught to commit all the crimes peculiar to the Paris gangsters. But she tells, and she finally rebels against her tutors. She is threatened with death by strangulation unless she obeys, but she succeeds in running away. She is in the street in the studio in the Latin quarter. He finds her there, and falls in love with her. She earns her living by posing as a model for him. From this time on she attempts to protect and safeguard "Julie," but one day when she ventures forth alone in the street she is captured by gangsters and carried back to the studio. Learning of her danger the artist seeks her. The police are finally put on the trail, and there follows a thrilling fight, in which the Apaches are slain, and Julie is saved from strangulation. This is a splendid picture, with a wonderful climax to it. The comedy feature of the final half of the picture is "Hearts and Sparks," the funny, serious Hank Mann making many odd moves. The invention of a wireless spark plug causes all of the trouble, and gets the city lit out of a lot of trouble. The last half of this picture is very, very funny. In the Hearst-International News Weekly shows of the German high seas fleet are shown the picture having been taken from the Kaiser's ship. Among the ships shown are the Westfalen and the Kaiserin. Other good views are shown of the allied anti-aircraft guns in action at Saloniki. In view of the infantile paralysis epidemic in New York, pictures of special appropriateness are shown, having been taken in the Lincoln hospital where hundreds of the little sufferers are being given treatment. The Mutt and Jeff animated cartoon is called "The Spontaneous" and it is a rattling good picture. "The Informer," a Civil War picture, also comes in for much favorable comment.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Delightfully refreshing and charming is the expable little favorite, Marguerite Clark, in the five-act feature picture, "Little Lady Eileen," which everyone who attended the Merrimack Square theatre yesterday thoroughly enjoyed. Miss Clark in this beautiful photoplay creation appears in the role of a little Irish school girl who attends a school in Dublin, and who has a big crush on a fellow student. In their wonderful power over mortals. The little Irish maid has been left a large fortune, provided she marry a certain man. This she loathes to do as she has given her heart to another whose name she does not know. It appears on the marriage day that her husband-to-be is an impostor. That the man she really loves is the very same named in the will. Of course Eileen knows that all this happiness of theirs was prearranged by the loving father who constantly watch over nice people and make their lives full of joy. Miss Clark again demonstrates her cleverness by depicting by her acting the mind of this simple, loving, trusting little girl. This play is one of her best. "Human Driftwood," starring Frances Nelson and Robert Warwick will also be shown at the Merrimack Square theatre performances today and tomorrow with "Little Lady Eileen" and other plays. "Human Driftwood" has a gripping appeal for every theatregoer, and while the play is interesting in every scene it also conveys a strong moral. Be sure to see it.

CANOBIE LAKE

Vaudeville was resumed again at Canobie Lake park this afternoon after an intermission of one evening while the Orpheus Glee club of Nashua had its concert. There are five big acts on the bill and much favorable enthusiasm has been heard in regard to them, too. "Billy" Augustine has another fine sketch entitled "Poor Old Bill" that is proving a source of much enjoyment. "Chief Eagle Horse," the Alaskan Indian, has an extra fine voice which he is displaying to his best advantage. Selden Bradford in "Fancy Capers" is another big hit on the meritorious bill. Mozarte and Rose are about as good as it gets in the line of instrumentalists with a wide range of instruments to select from. They mix up their program with concert numbers and popular songs that go exceptionally well.

Pictures make up a very strong bill for the park theatre. There are to be good things for the Sunday program and tomorrow evening so be on the lookout.

ROYAL THEATRE

A player who has always found a warm welcome in Lowell, on the speaking stage as well as in the motion picture is that strong dramatic portrayer who will again today and tomorrow at the Royal theatre in Vitagraph's latest release, "For a Woman's Fair Name," a virile drama that suits of human emotions and the human heart. "Mortimer" and "The Cave Man" has made a deep impression on the Lowell public, and all indications point to another big success in the picture offering, which is a straight drama of sensational situations. Other attractions will complete a corking program for the end of the week.

OWL THEATRE

When the Equitable Film Production Co. was successful in having Adela Blood sign one of its contracts, it was successful in securing one of the greatest emotional stars on the American stage today, and an actress who in the past has gained triumphs in several of Broadway's biggest hits and an actress who is as well known to the theatregoers of London as she is to the patrons of the theatres of all the large cities of the country. Miss Blood has recently finished work in her latest release, "The Devil's Toy," a powerful five-part photo-play, which will be the attraction at the cool Owl theatre today and tomorrow. Playing opposite to her in this feature film is Edwin Stevens, a favorite with thousands of motion picture fans and a man who needs no introduction to local theatregoers.

"The Devil's Toy" is a photo-drama of today. It tells of the pitfalls and heartbreaks of the modern young girls and young men when they enter where the bright lights shine and champagne flows like water. It brings us to the doors of the idle rich, where there is money, lots of it, but little if any happiness. It teaches a powerful lesson and pictures in a vivid manner the evils of today. In this film Miss Blood has every opportunity in the world to display those wonderful emotional talents which have made her internationally famous. In addition to "The Devil's Toy" other attractions, including an excellent comedy and several high-class photoplays, will complete the cool Owl today and tomorrow.

NEW PHOTO-PLAY CREATION

According to the special press agent, "The Unborn" is the title of the new and remarkable motion picture play which will be the big attraction at the Merrimack Square theatre all next week, commencing Monday, Aug. 21. The story was written by George Eliot, Jr., and was produced in Colorado and New York city. It is a moral propaganda of unusual strength and of compelling interest. The picture is a story of a young girl, Julie, who is a Parisian, a part played well by Jennie Lee, pleads with a judge in a French court to spare her son, who is a vagabond before him, but he is deaf to her entreaties and sends the woman youth to the galleys. The old woman vows revenge. And her opportunity comes soon after, when she learns that her son has been taken to the little girl, taken from a home of refinement, is reared as an Apache. She is taught to commit all the crimes peculiar to the Paris gangsters. But she tells, and she finally rebels against her tutors. She is threatened with death by strangulation unless she obeys, but she succeeds in running away. She is in the street in the studio in the Latin quarter. Her portrayal in this photo-play brings out a forcefulness and sincerity that is too seldom seen in moving picture work.

The management is making its plans to handle the large audiences expected. Also they have decided to exclude all children under 15 years of age, whether accompanied by adults or not.

DAMAGED GOODS

Press agents have the following to say relative to this play: "Damaged Goods," the wonderful photoplay which has started the world, will be shown at the Owl theatre all of the coming week. Wherever shown "Damaged Goods" has created a sensation. It shows conclusively that no girl is safe while the double standard of morals exists; also that the innocent suffer for the guilty. "Damaged Goods" pictures the terrible consequences of vice and the physical ruin that follows abuse of the moral law. It is a stirring plea for a pure life before marriage in order to make impossible the transmission of taints to future generations. "Damaged Goods" demonstrates conclusively the wreck and ruin of the body through sins against chastity. "Damaged Goods" has a mission to perform in picturing the young through the rocks and sandbars over which body and soul may be wrecked.

BUSY DAY FOR HUGHES

ENTERED CALIFORNIA FROM THE NORTH EARLY TODAY—MADE TRAIN TALKS

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Aug. 18.—Charles E. Hughes entered California from the north early today with a program of speech making, entertainment and conferences ahead of him that promised one of the most strenuous periods of his western trip. A reception committee of 30 waited near the Oregon line to welcome the presidential nominee and escort him to San Francisco, where he will remain for two days.

Today's program included an afternoon reception at the Union League club, a talk to San Francisco women an hour later at his hotel, an address at the Civic Auditorium tonight and a reception at the Newspapermen's club.

Interest centered in the big public meeting tonight over which W. F. Crocker, national committeeman was selected to preside. Arrangements for this meeting developed a conflict between republican and progressive leaders that has caused some bitterness.

Mr. Hughes is to try to mend the breach between the two factions. The progressives, denied the privilege of taking part in planning the meeting, are to be represented tonight by several vice presidents on the platform.

Their chief, Gov. Hiram W. Johnson, will not be present, his campaign for United States senatorship being progressive and a republican candidate having taken him to another part of the state.

Before reaching San Francisco Mr. Hughes made train talks at a number of towns.

TRAFFIC HOLDUP

Traffic on Central street, between Market and Hurd streets, was at a standstill for several minutes between 5:30 and 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Ten electric cars used during the mill hours and 15 automobiles formed a line between the two aforementioned streets and prevented pedestrians crossing from one side to the other as well as blocking all inward traffic.

Most of the cars were coming from the United States Carriage Co. on Central street. Something blocked their way near Market street and in a moment the 10 cars stretched past Hurd street. Three automobiles stationed facing Merrimack square on Central street assisted in holding up the traffic. With the electric cars halted and the autos on the same side of the street it was impossible for inward bound vehicles to get by. Hence there was no way to get out of Warren or Hurd streets and there was a general mixup which was not straightened out. Before the street was cleared 10 electric cars were stopped and 18 motorists were waiting to come down Central street besides those trying to get out of Warren and Hurd streets.

LOWELL DRAWS A BLANK

Could Not Score Off Justin While Lohman is Found in One Inning
—Two Accidents in Game

Special to The Sun
SPRINGFIELD, Aug. 18.—Zeke Lohman, Lowell's best bet in the art of pitching, got along very nicely at League park yesterday afternoon against the Ponies. In all except one inning, which eventually proved enough for a Pony victory. In seven of the eight innings in which he faced the League parkers, he managed to pull out of some precarious places, but the fourth inning was his undoing. Four well placed singles, short ones at that, met the home herd only two runs, but these began to grow greater and greater in value as the game proceeded. Lowell couldn't do a thing with Justin and consequently was marked with a shutout, the final tally standing, 5 to 0.

Justin was touched up for hits just as many times as was Lohman, but his judgment in keeping them scattered proved a winning factor. In two of the innings successive singles made it look dangerous, but by getting down to business the invaders were turned back without doing any damage. Right here it might be said that Geo. Spires put up one of the best fielding games seen at League park this season. He had three chances to get grounders, two of which were of the unmanageable kind, but one-handed pickups and perfect throws to first while off his balance nailed the runners each time. Unfortunately for First Baseman Torphy, he was the victim each time. The way the balls were traveling through the infield made them look like sure hits, but Spires wouldn't let Torphy fatten his average.

Two accidents caused shifting of lineups in each team. In the second inning, Catcher Kilhullen of Lowell was hit on the end of his index finger of his right hand and the bone was broken. In the eighth frame, Lohman delivered one of his deceiving in-shoots to Spires, who was unable to get out of the way and was hit in the face. Kilhullen will probably be out of the game for some time, but Spires should be seen in the lineup again this afternoon, as he was only dazed for the time being. Greenhalge succeeded Kilhullen, while Manager Flynn brought Gero, the latest addition to the squad, into action. Gero went in to run for Spires and then took right field, Hickey moving over to center and Booe going to third.

In only the sixth inning did the Ponies fail to get men on the paths, threatening all other frames. It was at these critical spots that Lohman was invincible generally, however, making the contest pretty evenly contested. Not a time during the entire game did a Lowell man get farther than second base and on many occasions runners were careless when they did get on the sacks. Just for illustration, Hal Justin caught two off first base, both of whom started for second, but were thrown out by Flynn.

After giving Lowell a scare in each of the first three innings, the Ponies finally made good their threat in the fourth. Manager Flynn started the rally with a single to center field and went along to second when Lohman made a wild pitch. Spires, after Lohman had him in a hole, dropped a short hit in right field, so short that Flynn was able to reach first only. The ball was thrown to the plate on the hit and Spires went along to the second station. Sharpe put a Texas leaguer just over second base, Flynn counting and Spires going to third. Ojerholm was an easy out, Lohman to Torphy and when Justin dropped a bunt down first base line, Torphy was so far in, he had plenty of time to field the ball and meet Spires trying to score from third. Sharpe got around to third during the mixup.

Everett Booe then came across with a drive to right field, on which Sharpe tallied the final run. Justin was caught at third on a force play for the third out.

KID MCCOY STORY

Willie Lewis Gives the Inside "Dope" on Mc-Coy-Stewart Bout

Another Kid McCoy story, which Willie Lewis delights to tell, concerns the McCoy-Jim Stewart scrap in New York back in 1908.

"That fight marked McCoy's first real ring appearance since his retirement six or eight years before," said Lewis. "At the time, the Kid was something like 35 years old and very much out of shape. Stewart on the other hand, was just in his prime. Many touted him as the coming champion.

"The fight took place in New York and was scheduled to go six rounds. Friends of the Kid told him he was crazy to go on with the match, pointing out that he didn't have a chance in the world against the fast and hard hitting Stewart.

"Mebbe not—and mebbe I have," was the Kid's answer. "There's lots of tricks in this trade and I've just thought out one that will let me win this fight."

"Whereupon, all the 'wise ones' laughed sarcastically.

"In the first round of that fight McCoy amazed the crowd by rushing Stewart. After he had chased him a bit, the Kid stopped, as though wounded. Stewart figured that the Kid actually was all in because of his furious opening attack. Stewart suddenly decided to rush McCoy and try for a knockout.

"Stewart raced in, swung at the Kid and missed. A fraction of a second later a terrific right crashed against Stewart's jaw. That punch carried behind it all the power that was in the over-plus body of Kid McCoy. When it landed, Stewart staggered for a minute and then sank to the mat.

"At the count of nine he arose to his feet, but before McCoy could rush in again, the round ended.

"That first round had used up McCoy. The exertion took from him all the reserve energy he had. That punch within him McCoy was through right there, and Stewart, had he known it, probably could have gone out and finished McCoy before the end of the third round.

"But Stewart didn't know it. Furthermore, Stewart was the most surprised man in the house that night. That McCoy wallop was totally unexpected. It robbed him of his early confidence, and got him to thinking that after all, this McCoy person was still able to put away real fighters.

McCoy "Threatens" Stewart

"Stewart, as I have stated, was just then on the ascendant. He was aiming for the championship. To be knocked out by the ancient McCoy would be a killer for him as far as title aspirations were concerned. And McCoy, crafty, shrewd McCoy, had that all figured out before the fight. He knew what effect it would have on Stewart if he could plant a knockdown punch in the first round. That is what the Kid took the long chance he did and used up all his real power in shooting that wallop.

"When the second round began, Stewart came out cautiously from his corner. McCoy met him in the center and made a swing that threw him—as he intended—into a clinch.

"No rough stuff from now on, Stewart—no rough stuff," McCoy chanted into Stewart's ears. "Take it easy from now on or I'll shoot over another punch and knock you dead, Dya hear?"

"A little while later in that round, McCoy fell into another intentional clinch with Stewart.

"That's right, old boy: just keep on taking it easy," he said to Stewart. "Don't try any slugging. Just box—that's all. If you try to slip over any hard punch I'll put you down and out a second later. Then your career will be ended because it will look bad for an old man to knock you out."

"Shortly after the third round opened, Stewart thought he detected signs of weariness about McCoy. He decided that the Kid was bluffing—that the Kid didn't have a good wallop left in his system. Stewart made up his mind to slam McCoy with a terrible right. He shot over the punch, but McCoy blocked it with startling cleverness and then clinched.

Kid's Bluff Works

"Say, you poor boob, didn't I tell you not to get caught?" snarled McCoy. "Try that punch again and you're through—get me? You're through. I'm a has-been and if I knock you out you're a has-been, too. You're a pretty good kid and I'll let you stay the limit if you dare; but if you get funny, you'll go down and out."

"And from then on Stewart never made a real effort to knock out McCoy. The poor old winded and all-in Kid McCoy, using his crafty brain, was able to throw fear into the stout heart of Jim Stewart; was able to beat one and only punch he had, and by his shrewdness to stave off a knockout by the husky young Stewart; was able to last out the six rounds and gain a popular decision over a youngster, who should have been able to send him into dreamland at any time after the second round opened."

GRAND CIRCUIT

Walter Cox Wins World Record Race With Mabel Trask

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 18.—Stake trotters held the attention of 6000 spectators at yesterday's Grand Circuit meeting. The Athletic club $5000 trotting stake for 208 eligibles was won by Cox's entry, Mabel Trask, after five hard heats with St. Frisco. The Buckeye Lake Yacht club $3000 stake for 212 trotters went in straight heats to Donna Clay, driven by C. A. Valentine.

In the Athletic club stake St. Frisco drove Mabel Trask to a break 200 feet from the wire in each of the first two heats. The second heat was trotted in 2:03 1-4, a new record for St. Frisco and the fastest mile trotted anywhere this year. Mabel took the next two heats in fast time and the fifth heat, trotted by Mabel Trask in 2:02, made it a "new world record for a five-heat trotting race." St. Frisco could get no closer to Mabel Trask than her wheel in the final mile.

In the 207 class pace, won by Roan Hal, he had to step in 2:02 1-4 on the final mile. Floyd was taken down from behind the Saxon and Redrick, being behind Hal Leaf for this heat, Valentine and Snow, respectively, being asked to drive the pacers. More vigorous teaming caused Roan Hal to go the terrific clip to win.

FRAMINGHAM, Aug. 18.—The fastest mile ever paced in a race on a half-mile track in New England was turned out here yesterday afternoon by Our Colonel in the Bay State Short Ship free-for-all, in 2:05 1-4. The record of the track was broken by the same horse three times in the race.

From the ancient out Lester Dore, the driver was presented a silver loving cup, donated by William H. Minton of Boston president of Framingham Trotting association. There were ideal weather conditions, a good track, and an enthusiastic patronage on the closing day of the meeting.

The 2:21 class was won by Billy Burke three straight heats; the free-for-all pace by Our Colonel, and the 2:27 class by Stanfurd McKiver, in three straight heats. The summary:

EASTERN LEAGUE COMMENT

Lowell winds up in Springfield today.

Lohman can't win games unless his teammates make some runs.

Justin was an easy mark on his last appearance in the box at Spalding park.

Our own George Spires did some great fielding around third base, robbing Torphy of three hits.

Manager Kilhullen will have to direct the team from the bench for a week or so. The index finger of his right hand was broken by a foul tip.
Greenhalge will probably do the catching with the infield remaining the same as yesterday.

George Spires had a narrow escape when he failed to get out of the way of one of Lohman's in-shoots. The ball struck him in the face and knocked him out.

Heifrich is hitting the ball in fine style and if he continues his progress will soon attract attention from the big league scouts. A couple of more hits like Heifrich and Lowell would not be so near the cellar.

The Portland Express frequently remarks about the "Hosches" poor work and calls attention to the fact that less than a half game separates us from last place. Portland is the home of Harry Lord, deposed manager of the Lowell team. What if we do descend to the cellar berth? Somebody has to be there.

Lynn made a regular "Lou Pieper" rally in the ninth, scoring four runs before anyone had been put out and taking the game from Bridgeport. As Charles Keldner would say, that's what they get for sticking "mild" em.

Pitcher Tuckey won his own game from Hartford when he tripled in the third and scored on Pete Clemens' single. It was the only run of the game. Hartford played a snappy game and did not look like a tall end outfit.

With the exception of first base, a pretty good team could be made up of former Lowell players now with other teams in the Eastern league. They are: Outfielders: Magee, Pottelger and Clemens; Infielders: Spires, Lo-cannon and Nye; Pitchers: Powers and J. Reiger; catcher, Lavigne. Spires and Lavigne still belong here, but will probably do us no good this season.

Jesse Burkett may never manage another ball team. At least he is through for this season. In Worcester this week, he stated that he was considering offers to act as scout for two big league clubs and would probably accept one of them.

Just now Jesse's chief occupation is his attempt to secure back salary which he claims is due him from the Lawrence club. He attacked the $100 guarantee which the club was to receive from Worcester in that city and also had sheriffs at Riverside park, Saturday.

DIAMOND DAZZLES

The Braves won another exhibition game.

The heavy hitters of the White Sox came back strong and hammered Car-Mays, the Red Sox leading pitcher from the box.

Larry Gardner is playing a great game around the hot corner for the Red Sox. At that he is handicapped by an injured toe.

About 500 residents of Canton were the guests of President Lannin at the game yesterday.

Jose Jackson's two doubles proved a great help to the White Sox.

The lowly Athletics played two great games against the St. Louis Browns, winning the first in 10 innings and loy-ing the second by one run. A home run by Pratt decided the second game.

Says a New York despatch: The Yanks' doctor was around yesterday and intimated that Gilbooley would be able to get back in the game by September 1. Frank Baker, he says, could get in the game in a few days if it was deemed advisable. The club management thinks it best, however, that he lay off until thoroughly restored to batting and running vigor. With the pennant practically gone there is little to gain by taking needless chances.

Joe Wilhoit, California outfielder now with the Braves, has the longest legs in captivity. They seem to start under his collar bone and of his total height—6 feet, 1 inch—about 4 feet, inches appear to be reserved for legs.
When Wilhoit is crouching the bases under full steam he resembles a pair of callipers violently agitated and covering ground with terrific speed.

The leading hitters in the American league batted as follows yesterday:

Speaker	4	1	0	.25
Cobb (2 games)	10	6	4	.60
Jackson	4	2	1	.50

BIG MOTOR BOAT RACE THE PLUMBING QUESTION

CHAMPIONSHIP RACE OF AMERICA WILL BE HELD ON THE DETROIT RIVER

DETROIT, Aug. 18.—For the first time since 1904 when the gold cup was put up, the motor boat championship race of America will be held this year on western waters. It will be decided on the Detroit river, September 2, 4 and 5, with the mile championships on Sept. 6. Previous to 1915 most of the boats competing represented eastern clubs, but last year a group of Detroit sportsmen built and financed the racing of the Miss Detroit, which lifted the cup and brought it west.

This year Miss Detroit will defend the cup against Count Mankoski's challenger, Ankle Deep Two, which sank twice in trial trips on Long Island sound last year.

Among the other known contestants will be the Miss Minneapolis, the Hawkeye, and a new craft being built in Detroit by C. Harold Willis. Among the probable starters are: The Tech Jr., owned by Col. T. Coleman Dupont, Commodore James A. Pugh's new Disturber hydro and W. J. Connors' Buffalo Enquirer. It is expected that others will make a bid for the gold cup and that about a dozen of the hydroplanes will start in the race. The Hawkeye, owned by Com. J. L. Judson, president of the American Power Boat association, was burned last year and did not compete but has been rebuilt.

In a race at Put-in-Bay this season, the Miss Minneapolis averaged 65.55 miles per hour, a new world's record. While the Miss Detroit was not forced to extend herself in winning the 1915 race at Manhasset bay in straight heats, her best time being 48.9 miles an hour, it is hardly probable that the defender can equal the new world's record holder's speed. However, the boat has been thoroughly overhauled and the backers believe she can retain the trophy. The Willis boat will be a dark horse but is expected to be among the fastest of the hydroplane type ever produced.

While the Miss Detroit was not forced to extend herself in winning the 1915 race at Manhasset bay in straight heats, her best time being 48.9 miles an hour, it is hardly probable that the defender can equal the new world's record holder's speed. However, the boat has been thoroughly overhauled and the backers believe she can retain the trophy. The Willis boat will be a dark horse but is expected to be among the fastest of the hydroplane type ever produced.

The course will be nearly 50 miles including the drifts of the various tides through which they will swim. Sullivan and Toth will enter the water prepared to remain a day, two days or more. If such a thing is possible, the conditions are that a winner must be decided. It is thought that if the swim is completed it will be done in between 20 and 24 hours.

Henry Sullivan is in fine condition and feels confident of performing the greatest feat ever accomplished in waters in this country. He has been raining at Whitthrop for several weeks, taking long swims daily, and should be able to tackle the hard task that confronts him. Toth, too, says he is ready for the battle with the tides.

The swim from Provincetown to Nantasket is far more difficult than any other ever attempted in American waters. Some experts say it compares with the English channel swim. Sullivan and Toth are the two men capable of attempting the swim. Sullivan's great feats in waters in this country as well as his plucky endeavor to swim the English channel when he was taken from the water but nine miles from the French coast ranks him as one of the best swimmers in the country. Toth also has a record that gives him a right to challenge Sullivan to a match swim.

On August 21, almost a year ago, Sullivan, Sam Richards and Toth started from Nantasket beach to Provincetown. After about five hours' swimming Richards was seized with a cramp and was taken from the water, but Sullivan continued on and at 6 o'clock Sunday morning he was within nine miles of his goal without a competitor, as Toth had been taken from the water off Seltwater harbor. With the sea very rough, Sullivan was induced by his friends to abandon his effort and he drifted into the boat within eight miles of his destination.

The conditions of the contest are that both swimmers must be ready for Starter Frank B. Davis' pistol at 6 o'clock. Failure to be in readiness will be sufficient cause for disqualification by the referee, Howell D. Stevens of Boston.

Each man will be accompanied by two dories, one which will act as pilot boat. Each man will have an inspector in his opponents boat, and the duties of the inspector will be to see that the swimmers observe the rules and that neither swimmer receives assistance, other than the food handed him. Under no circumstances will a swimmer be permitted to touch his boat.

In the event of neither swimmer reaching the goal, can buoys will be placed where the respective swimmers are taken from the water and three judges, one acting in behalf of each man and a third to be chosen by mutual agreement, will determine which has reached a point nearest Nantasket beach. If the judges cannot agree, then the referee shall name the winner.

One thing is certain, providing the conditions are at all propitious, and that is that a new world's record for breast stroke swimming will be established by Sullivan for he employs no other stroke in his long swims.

It is a moral certainty also that a new American endurance record will be created. If they both continue in the water longer than Toth's record of 16h 47m, there is no hazardous a guess as to when they will stop.

Sharks Need Not Be Feared

Charles C. Munn of 243 L St. South Boston, Toth's manager, has secured a seaworthy launch capable of accommodating 125 passengers, but he will limit the number on this craft to 60, for comfort and safety. He has also chartered a second launch, nearly as large, which will carry about 40 more, and a still smaller launch will be held in readiness as a dispatch boat for the officials to go from one swimmer to the other, since it is a foregone conclusion that they will be widely separated during the long hours of darkness.

Sullivan's friends are no less loyal, and a large delegation from Lowell will crowd the two boats that have been secured for them.

The men in the four dories and aboard the launch will be supplied with boat hooks, harpoons, pitchforks, pistols and bombs to put to rout any sharks or other denizens of the deep that may threaten to attack the men in the water.

CITY SOLICITOR SUBMITS OPINION REQUESTED BY THE BOARD OF HEALTH

At the request of the local board of health the following opinion as to whether or not a person, firm or corporation not being licensed in connection with a plumbing business in Lowell by employing a person, not a member of the firm, who is registered as a master plumber, was this morning given out by City Solicitor Nathan.

August 17, 1916.
Board of Health, Lowell, Mass.
Gentlemen: You have asked my opinion on the following question: "Can any person, firm or corporation, the members thereof not being licensed and registered as master or journeymen plumbers, legally establish and carry on the business of plumbing, by opening a place of business, displaying fixtures and fittings for sale, advertising by signs, etc., to do a general plumbing business, and employing a person (not a member of the firm) who is registered as a master plumber to take out permits in accordance with chapter 103 of the R. L. as amended by chapter 535 of the acts of 1909?"

The statute law on this question is as follows: "No person, firm or corporation shall engage in or work at the business of plumbing, either as a master or journeyman plumber, unless he or it has received a license or certificate therefor in accordance with the provisions of this chapter." (R. L., chapter 103, section 1.)

"The words, 'master or journeyman plumber,' as used in chapter 103 of the R. L., shall be deemed to mean a plumber having a regular place of business and who himself, or by journeyman plumbers in his employ, performs plumbing work." (Statute 1909, chapter 535, section 9.)

"The word 'journeymen,' as used in this chapter, shall mean a person who himself does any work in plumbing which is by law, ordinance, by-law, rule or regulation subject to inspection." (R. L., chapter 103, section 1.)

In the case of a firm or corporation, "a license," (or a certificate showing the holder to have been a registered plumber prior to September 1, 1914, with the state examiner) "issued to one member of the firm or the manager of the corporation shall satisfy the requirements of this chapter." (R. L., chapter 103, section 2, statute 1912, chapter 515.)

"Whoever violates any provision of this chapter or any ordinance, by-law or regulation made hereunder shall be punished by a fine not more than $50 for each offence." R. L., chapter 103, section 3.

"Every person engaging in the business of plumbing as a master plumber, or working at the business of plumbing as a journeyman plumber, not having been registered or licensed as provided and every person violating any provision of this act or any rule or regulation made thereunder shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $50 for each offence." (Statute 1909, chapter 535, section 10.)

The nearest and latest court decision in point is found in the case of Barriere vs. Depatie (212 Mass. 33.) There the plaintiff, Barriere, conducted a plumbing business in the city of Worcester without obtaining any license as a master or journeyman plumber, and in a manner similar to your supposed case, except that he succeeded in getting the local permits for jobs in his own name. He employed only licensed plumbers to do the work, and he does not appear that he assumed to direct the methods of the plumbing work in their details. The court seems to hold that this method of plumbing "as a master or employing plumber or as a journeyman plumber" is within the prohibition of the statute.

The point will not be free from doubt until the law is further tested, for the Barriere decision is rather uncertain in its terms, and the case could well rest upon other grounds therein mentioned. In view of its language, however, as the last word of the supreme court upon the point, I should doubt the success of a prosecution under the circumstances you name.

Very respectfully yours,
Harold A. Varnum,
City Solicitor.

SLEEPYTIME TALES

NAUGHTY FRED

Once upon a time Fred and Mattie were playing in the yard. Fred was seven and Mattie, five. Fred was told to must take care of his sister and he was very good to her and let her play what she wanted to most of the time.

This morning they had been out a long time and Fred had played almost everything that they had ever played and he was getting tired. "I tell you what, let's do," said Fred, "Let's go to walk." So Fred took hold of his sister's hand and down the street they went hand in hand. They looked in the shop windows and Mattie saw a doll that she wanted and Fred said he would buy it when he had saved up enough money. They walked on and on until they came to the bank of the river. The children had never been there before, but their father had taken them out in a boat once and Fred thought that was just the thing to do now.

He told Mattie to get into the boat and he started to untie it, and get the oars. Of course the oars were too big for a boy of his age to manage and in a minute one of them had slipped out of the boat and down the river. "The boat was going along very well without oars and Fred pointed out other boats and things to Mattie as they passed.

Pretty soon they heard someone shout to them and in a minute another boat was beside them and a man asked them where they were going and where they lived. When Fred told him they were taking a little ride and didn't know where they were going, he said they had better get into his boat and come with him. He asked Fred where he lived. Fred wasn't quite sure, but he said his mother had sewn his name, street and number into his jacket lining. They soon found it and in a minute the children and their new friend were in an automobile going toward their home.

When they reached home the children went into the house and found their mother had missed them and had telephoned to the police station. Fred was sent right straight to bed and had to stay there for the rest of the day. He has promised his mother never to run away again, and I am sure he won't.

Massachusetts' Share of $75,000,000 Road Bill Little More Than $1,000,000

Special to The Sun
STATE HOUSE, Boston, Aug. 18.—Massachusetts' share of the $75,000,000 road bill recently passed by congress will be only a very little more than $1,000,000, according to information obtained by Col. William D. Schier, chairman of the highway commission, at a conference in Washington this week.

It will be remembered that congress provided, in the bill authorizing the appropriation, that one-third of it should be apportioned to the several states in proportion to their area; another third in proportion to their population; and the other third in "the ratio which the mileage of rural delivery routes and star routes in each state bears to the total mileage of rural delivery routes and star routes in all the states."

Pauper Support Bill

Assessors in every city and town in the state will have to begin shortly a revision of their "pauper support" lists, because of the fact that a statute passed by the legislature in 1911 has only this week taken full effect.

Heretofore the law has provided that any person who is unable to support himself shall be supported by the city or town in which he had a "legal settlement," and settlement was obtained only by the payment of at least three poll taxes in five successive years. In the absence of such a settlement, the burden of support has fallen upon the commonwealth.

Now, however, the old order has changed, and the poll tax requirement has been wiped out. In its place is a provision that residence in any city or town for five successive years shall constitute a settlement, and such city or town is compelled to pay the bills.

The change is expected to have a considerable effect on all of the larger cities. For example, a man lived in Boston several years ago and had a poor position, paying his poll taxes regularly. Then ill health overtook him and he moved out into some small place where the cost of living was not so high. With reduced income, he decided to economize by omitting to pay his poll taxes and finally he became indigent.

In such cases, Boston has been obliged, under the old law, to support the man. Under the new law, however, five years' residence in his new home relieves Boston of responsibility, and places the burden upon the town where the man lives.

It is expected that the expense to the commonwealth will also be materially increased, as there are many poor persons of a roving disposition, who never remain for five years in a single place, and all such must hereafter be cared for at the expense of the state.

FOR NATIONAL FORESTS

TENTATIVE ALLOTMENT OF MILLION DOLLARS FOR ROADS AND TRAILS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Tentative allotment of a million dollars for construction and maintenance of roads and trails in national forests was announced today by Secretary Houston of the department of agriculture. This would be expended during the present fiscal year out of the $10,000,000 appropriated by the federal road aid act.

Under the terms of the act the states are required to co-operate to the extent of at least 50 per cent. of the estimated cost of surveys and construction.

Maine, New Hampshire, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Georgia, in which the government is purchasing lands for national forests, have been tentatively allotted $21,037.

PRIVATE GEORGE TIGHE

FORMER EMPLOYE OF THE SUN WRITES INTERESTING LETTER FROM MEXICAN BORDER

A member of The Sun staff has received the following letter from Private George Tighe, formerly of The Sun stereotyping department and now doing duty for Uncle Sam on the Mexican border:

I suppose you will think that I have forgotten you, but you have another thing coming. I can prove a good ally. We did not draw any pay for five weeks and as stamps were scarce I only wrote to the ones who were dear to me at home.

El Paso is a wonderful city. About all of the buildings are modern and built on plans similar to The Sun building. The Hotel Paso Del Norte is the handsomest hotel I have ever seen. It is eight stories in height. The ground floor, which includes the lobby and dining room, is beautifully and artistically decorated with palms and Mexican ornaments. I think it has as much floor space as any two department stores in Lowell.

The city of El Paso is under martial law. The police of the city are 93 per cent. soldiers. The regular army. The camp where we were for seven weeks is called Camp Cotton and it is the worst camp grounds that possibly could have been picked. The sand, the night we arrived, was ankle deep and we had a hard time for at least two weeks putting the grounds into shape for travel. Sandstorms are as common here as rain storms in good old New England. We have one most every day and when it comes you have to be a regular ostrich to duck it, as it gets in your mouth, ears and eyes. Sometimes you are unable to see five feet in front of you. The dust is called alkali and it certainly does burn. It burns your lips and nostrils, sometimes causing sores to break out on the lips.

We are now on a 15 day tour of guard duty and maneuvers at Camutila, New Mexico, and it is certainly some relief to get away from the sand storms at Camp Cotton. We have grass here and the air is clearer and purer. The air is cool, too, for this is the rainy season.

Our tents are pitched in the Central school yard. It is the school for towns within a radius of 10 miles. The school includes the primary, grammar and high school grades. After our tour of guard duty we are supposed to have ten days rifle practice and believe me, we need it, for some of the fellows here never handled a rifle before their enlistment.

The boys are all well here and are anxious for a settlement between the United States and Mexico. Most all of them are longing for the folks back home and the girls they left behind them.

Gerald Bean, our company clerk, was acting first sergeant of the recruits on the way to the border.

Private Burns says they used to call him three times in the morning at home before he got up and he can't understand why they don't do it here.

A minstrel show and dance will be held by Co. M. minstrels next week, in the school hall, and the residents of this place and surrounding towns are enthusiastic over it. Give my regards to all the boys on The Sun.

Yours respectfully,
George Tighe.

DEATH OF PRINCE

Disappearance of Body of Kaiser's Nephew Explained

PARIS, Aug. 18.—The circumstances of the death and mysterious disappearance of the body of Prince Maximilian of Hesse whose relatives invoked the aid of the pope in an effort to obtain this information, are disclosed by a writer in the Petit Parisien. The writer asserts that the prince was shot during an engagement between a Saxony detachment and an English patrol near Godewaersvelde, in northern France, early in the war.

The prince was found by Trappist monks and taken to their monastery where he died soon after. The monks were ordered to evacuate the monastery and Father Bernard, visiting the cloister on the following day, found that the body of the prince was missing.

Later the prince's family appealed to the pope to obtain information as to the disposition of the prince's body but without success. The Petit Parisien writer says the body reposes in a humble cemetery in Hazebroeck, that it was kept two days in a house there, was once interned but exhumed at night and finally buried in a coffin costing thirty francs, which were advanced by a poor man out of pity.

Princess Maximilian was twenty years of age and the son of the youngest sister of Emperor William of Germany.

Previously it has been stated that he was fatally wounded in an engagement near Mont Doreau on Oct. 12, 1914, and that the body was buried in a monastery.

etc., and also information about his parents. He must state the extent of his education, whether or not he has been convicted of any crime, and answer many other questions about his character. With this application it is necessary to furnish two testimonials signed by citizens of the United States, preferably clergymen, school teachers or public officers, who believe that the applicant would "make a good and faithful soldier."

Next comes the physical examination which is a very lengthy one. After answering several pages the examining physician states whether or not the applicant fulfills the legal requirements for enlistment.

It is necessary to then fill out an enlistment paper to be forwarded to the adjutant general's office in which the applicant swears to serve in the National Guard of the United States of the state of Massachusetts, for the period of three years in the service and three years in the reserve under the conditions prescribed by law, unless sooner discharged by proper authority. Three forms requiring more information are also filled out before the applicant is sent away.

MODERN ALMSHOUSE

BILLERICA'S OVERSEERS OF THE POOR OBJECT TO STATE BOARD OF CHARITY'S REPORT

According to the overseers of the poor of the town of Billerica, the state board of charity was asked in its special report issued Monday of this week concerning the conditions of almshouses in cities and towns in this section including Lowell, Billerica, Chelmsford, Tewksbury and Westford. The report commenting upon the institutions of all the other towns except Billerica called attention to the modern steam heating systems, electrical lighting fixtures and other improvements while the Billerica poor farm was classed as being heated by "stoves" and lighted by "kerosene oil."

The Billerica officials correct the state board of charity and state that the town has a home for its paupers as up-to-date as any in this section. Over a year ago the sum of $4000 was expended on repairs and improvements to comply with suggestions made by the state board of health.

Now the town farm has a separate dining room, several modern bath rooms, electric lights in all rooms and a newly installed heating system. These improvements, claim the overseers, provide every comfort for the inmates.

WANT TO BE ARMY OFFICERS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Applications for appointment as second lieutenant in the army have flooded the office of the adjutant general since it became known that the service virtually is without officers of that rank and must obtain them promptly from civil life. The war department announced today that applications received after Aug. 15 could not be acted upon in time to permit the applicants to be examined on August 21, the date of the first examination. Another examination will be held early in 1917.

More than 900 applicants will be examined Aug. 21. Even if all are successful there will remain 600 vacancies, and on July 1, 1917, when the second increment of army increase authorized by congress is added, there will be another big list of places to be filled.

WARNING FOR ENGLAND

Manchester Guardian Says Maxwell's Severity Has Caused Unfriendly Feeling

LONDON, Aug. 18.—Various influences, particularly England's policy toward Ireland, are arousing suspicion and resentment in the United States, says the Manchester Guardian, in a long editorial article today. These facts cannot be ignored, it asserts, for the active cooperation of the United States will be necessary if a lasting peace is to be brought about by a league of the "liberal pacific powers of the world."

The Guardian suggests that the British orders in council, the censorship, the blacklist and interference with neutral trade have tended in some degree to alienate American sympathy from Great Britain and her allies, and continues:

"But these matters are comparatively unimportant in days such as these and if there were nothing else to be considered we should be justified in concluding that there was no reason to anticipate any serious change in Anglo-American relations."

Referring to American expressions of opinion in regard to the resolutions adopted at the economic conference of the entente allies at Paris at which consideration was given to various proposals, especially regarding tariff changes, which provoked wide comment in America, the Guardian says:

"There is no doubt that the suspicion here implied is injuriously affecting the allied cause in America, and these circumstances should not be overlooked in our calculations for the future. But above all other influences working against us in America is the memory of the Irish revolt."

When the cabinet resisted the first impulse towards clemency the Guardian continues, it forgot the immense and troublesome fact of Irish America, and for that lapse of statesmanship there would seem to be no hope of a speedy remedy. It adds:

"The reign of Sir John Maxwell at Dublin has made an end, perhaps for years to come, of all hopes of reconciliation, that large element in the United States which, until with the home rule act, we began to redeem the past in Ireland, had been by this addition and practice irreconcilable. One of our greatest assets when the war broke out was the cordial neutrality of the American people, made possible by the restraint and somewhat reluctant sympathy of American Irish. That we sacrificed and the loss is likely to cost the peoples and behavior of the United States towards us until the end of the war, or until such time as a complete change can be brought about in our Irish policy."

"We cannot ignore this fact much as we may regret it, for the active cooperation of the United States is an essential condition to any such league of the liberal pacific powers of the world as alone can give us an assurance of stable peace."

INCREASING DEMAND

FOR SAVINGS BANK LIFE INSURANCE POLICIES

The increasing demand from all parts of the state for savings bank life insurance policies has made necessary the appointment by the state medical director of medical examiners in all Massachusetts towns having 4000 or more inhabitants.

The premium income of the savings insurance banks for July, 1916, shows an increase of 37 per cent over the income for July, 1915. There are now upwards of 14,000 policyholders, with insurance in force approaching $5,000,000. As a result of the extremely low cost of this insurance, for the month of July nearly 50 per cent of the business issued by the banks came by direct application to the banks or one of their agencies.

The commonwealth will give full information to anyone interested; address Savings Bank Life Insurance, State House, Boston, Massachusetts.
